BE MERRY, WITH 20SOMETHING Sunday, 20 November @ 1pm

Christmas is coming early and we're here to make sure that it's fun season all the way. We check out EMI's Christmas release launch, get designing with some students and hang with some of our peers. As usual Namhla Ndlovu and Khethiwe Kunene are your hosts on 20something, every Sunday - free on e.

Christmas is a time for rejoicing and EMI is set to have everyone dancing to their artist's tunes with their festive season releases. We went to check out the launch held @ The Mix in Melrose Arch where artists like Mandoza, Mdu, Pam Andrews & Wikid performed hot singles from their latest albums.

We also check out the Design Guard, a competition that is run by House & Leisure and Mr Price, which challenges design students to come up with home designs as per a specific brief with the final winner receiving a trip to 100% Design in London.

We visit a group of 20somethings as they tell us what they are reading for the summer and hang out with another group of friends to check out where's the best place to hang and be merry in our Club review.

The movie preview of the week is "A History Of Violence" starring Viggo Mortensen, Ed Harris, Maria Bello, and William Hurt. Based on the novel by John Wagner and Vince Locke, the film revolves around a central character of Tom Stall. Tom is a loving family man and well-respected citizen of a small Indiana town. But when two savage criminals show up at his diner, Tom is forced to take action and thwart the robbery attempt. Suddenly heralded as a hero who took the courage to stand up to crime, people look up to Tom as a man of high moral regard. But all that media attention has the likes of mobsters showing up at his doorstep, charging that Tom is someone else they've been looking for. Is it a case of mistaken identity or does Tom have a history that no one knows about?

We wrap up the show with Ludacris & Bobby Valentino's single 'Pimping All Over The World', which was shot on location in sunny Durban.
