TX March 05 @ 1.35pm

We chat to Executive Director of Variety Club, Toni Gomes about the up and coming Celebrity Boxing Challenge taking place on 19 March 2006. Toni tells us more about the event – how the idea came about, which celebs are taking part, and where the money will be going.

Still sticking with the boxing theme we hang with Amanda Nguta – one of Mzansi's most promising 20something female boxers. Starting off her career at 19, Amanda has fought 15 bouts without any losses. She lets us in on how she got into the sport, why she enjoys it, what pressures she faces in this male dominated sport.

Our movie premier this week is the remake of the silver screen classic "The Pink Panther", starring Steve Martin, Kevin Kline and the devastatingly gorgeous Beyoncé Knowles. A world-famous soccer coach is murdered and his priceless, legendary ring has been stolen – a ring set with the stunning diamond known as the "Pink Panther". The French government needs a master detective to solve the crime and recover the gem – but he's not available, so they recruit none other than Inspector Jacques Clouseau. A sexy Pop Star, a soccer player, a Chinese assassin are among the suspects, but who committed the crime?

The music video of the week comes from newcomer James Blunt with 'You're Beautiful'.

TX March 12 @ 1.05pm

We chat with Paul Grootboom, who has been labelled as the next big thing when it comes to directing good theatre productions relevant to today's society (like the runaway hit 'Cards'). Paul registered for a BSc at the University of the Witwatersrand on the strength of his matric results, but Paul soon realised that science was not for him, and he embarked on a career that straddled his passion for film and writing.

Whilst reading is an important form of entertainment for most 20somethings, the types of reading material available out there is not restricted to only novels and books in the conventional sense. We look at an alternative 'form' of a novel that predominantly appeals to an adult segment that appreciate the detailed illustrations that are usually accompanied by complex and lengthy plots.

The movie preview this week is the remake of the successful Broadway play "The Producers" starring Will Ferrell, Nathan Lane, Matthew Broderick, and Uma Thurman. A shady Broadway producer and his nerdy accountant concoct a scheme to over finance a huge flop and pocket the excess budget, but the show unexpectedly becomes a smash hit.

The music video comes from the ultra sexy, crazy and cool sextet The Pussy Cat Dolls with 'Stick With U'.
