20something Sunday 19 March @ 1.30pm

Be free, be knowledgeable, be you, be 20something. If this is you then you would be glad to let Namhla Ndlovu and Shashi Naidoo be your guides as they present the show for an individual like yourself this Sunday at 1.30pm, free and only on e.

Me – the brand, is proving to be very popular buzzword amongst a lot of people and this week we chat to Image Consultant Penny Rodel about ways 20something's can create their own personal brand and become more attractive and successful individuals that they want to be. Penny takes us through things like how important it is to present yourself in a certain way that works to your best advantage; power speaking; personal branding; body language etc.

Continuing in our theme of graphic novels we check out the book V for Vendetta which has recently been turned into a Hollywood blockbuster. We also ask our reviewers how the book compares to the movie...

Appropriately, the movie preview of the week is "V for Vendetta", starring Natalie Portman and Hugo Weaving. Set against the futuristic landscape of totalitarian Britain, this is the story of a young woman, Evey, who is rescued from a life-and-death situation by a masked vigilante known only as "V". Incomparably charismatic and ferociously skilled in the art of combat and deception, V urges his fellow citizens to rise up against tyranny and oppression. As Evey uncovers the truth about V's mysterious background, she also discovers the truth about herself – and emerges as his unlikely ally in the culmination of his plot to bring freedom and justice back to a society fraught with cruelty and corruption.
