20something does entertainment best! Sunday 5 November at 12.15pm, and 12 November at 1.30pm

We turn the tables on Shashi and Namhla in the next two weeks as our lovely hosts tell us more about who they are. We throw in two hot talents – the ultra cool Mandoza and the sultry Thembisile. Both have CD offerings for the summer in the mix just in time for the silly festive season. 20something does entertainment best, every Sunday around lunchtime, free on e.

TX: 5 November at 12.15pm

We find out more about Shashi Naidoo. We'd like to give viewers insight into who Shashi is, what she's all about, her interests, and what she does when she's not presenting the show. Taking us to where she hangs out viewers can get the chance to learn more about this versatile vixen. Did you know that Shashi is also a Chiropractor?

We chat to Mandoza about his latest album offering "Ngalabesi". We also find out more about the man behind Nkalakatha and his journey in the music business, the different artists he worked with, the inspiration behind the track with the late TK and his fusion of hip hop and his inspiration behind working with young producers and collaborating with some of SA's young stars like Bravo and Pro-Kid.

We preview the movie "Brick". High school student Brendan Frye prefers to stay an outsider, until the day that his ex-girlfriend, Emily, reaches out to him unexpectedly and then vanishes. To find her,

Brendan enlists the aid of his only true peer, The Brain, while keeping the assistant vice principal only occasionally informed of what quickly becomes a dangerous investigation. Brendan's single-minded unearthing of students' secrets thrusts him headlong into the colliding social orbits of rich-girl sophisticate Laura, intimidating Tugger, substance-abusing Dode, seductive Kara, jock Brad, and - most ominously - non-student The Pin.

We play out with Janet Jackson's 'So Excited'.

TX: 12 November at 1.30pm

The focus sways on Namhla Ndlovu this week as we give viewers insight into who Namhla is. Did you know that Namhla started her career off as a VeeJay? The gorgeous 20something also juggles a career with motherhood as she is a mother to her precious four-year old baby girl!

We chat to Thembisile about her solo album. Thembisile who is a member of the pop star group Adilah has recently released her debut solo album. We'd like to find out more about the album from her, how different it is from Adilah, her interests, dreams while growing up and her achievements. We also find out more about the different producers she has worked with, the difference in working in a solo album as compared to being in a group of 5 and we also speak to her about her plans for the future.

We preview the movie "Road to Guantanamo Bay". In 2001, four Pakistani Britons travelled to Pakistan for a wedding and in a urge of idealism, decide to see the situation of war torn Afganistan. Once there, they are captured by Northern Alliance fighters and handed over the American forces who transport them to the prison camps at the Guantanamo Bay base in Cuba. What follows is three years of relentless imprisonment, interrogations and torture to make them submit to blatantly wrong confessions to being terrorists.

We play out with Jamelia's 'Something About You'.
