

Press Release

20something leads the way Sunday 25 March at 1.20pm and 1 April at 1.05pm

In the next two weeks 20something shows you how to take your first steps; moves to the tune of a musical; gets gadgetry and reviews a unique debut CD.

25 March at 1.20pm

20something chats to one of the founders and creators of First Step, a website dedicated to high school leavers and university graduates, which gives advice on how to conquer the big bad world. The website has loads of advice and information from how to obtain study loans, moving away from home, choosing the right career path and the different institutions of higher learning around Mzansi.

Namhla and Shashi chat to two of the lead actors from the Musical Soweto Story – Vuyani Kheswa and Thandi Thwala – and director Genna Lewis about the production, the inspiration behind it and what the story is all about. The production’s musical score is composed by the talented Zwai Bala and Janine Neethling.

We preview the movie “Smokin Aces” with Ben Affleck, Andy Garcia and Alicia Keys.

Corinne Bailey-Rae plays us out with “Trouble Sleeping”.

1 April at 1.05pm

20something checks out the latest and hippest gadgets with our gadgets man Anthony Draper.

Namhla and Shashi chat to up and coming musician Lungelo, who hails all the way from Gugulethu in Cape Town. Lungelo studied classical piano and attended M7, the music school founded by Abdullah Ibrahim. Lungelo writes music, produces and sings and has released his solo debut album called "Collision".

We review the movie "Perfect Stranger" starring Oscar-winning actress Halle Berry.
