3rd Degree: Feedback on our most controversial Shows
TX: Tuesday 22 April at 8pm

Two years ago we investigated the assault of young Alwyn Pringle, the sole survivor of a brutal attack in the south of Johannesburg. Alwyn was left scarred for life and his brother Trevor was found murdered just a few kilometres away, both brothers dumped in the farming community of Meyerton. An on-going 3rd Degree investigation discovered crucial evidence at the crime scene that had been overlooked by the police; amongst this - the sacks used to wrap Alwyn's body in. Following our broadcast – and under extreme public pressure - the police finally collected the vital pieces of evidence from the e.tv offices. We find out if any further progress has been made in solving this horrific murder.

Crime continues to terrify and intimidate South Africans. In one such attack, 19-year-old Razelle Botha was shot in the back during a robbery at her Moreleta Park home. She was in intensive care for weeks and doctors said she would never walk again. But in a miraculous turnaround, Razelle defied their predictions and we filmed her successful attempts to get back on her feet.

The Potgieter family's baby died in the care of a Pretoria day mother, under suspicious circumstances. At the time there was no post-mortem. Following our broadcast, the authorities finally acted and we can now reveal the shocking cause of death. As for the featured day mother – is she still operating?
