This Week On 3rd Degree: Tuesday 29 November @ 8pm

A musician who brought together those who heard his songs... A dancer who inspired others to set the stage alight... A filmmaker who brought South African stories to the big screen...

These were three prominent artists who still had much to contribute to our country -but were stopped mid-sentence in their efforts. This week 3rd Degree investigates the deaths of bassist Gito Baloi, choreographer Jackie Semela and producer Dumisani Dlamini.

We examine the impact their murders have had on the arts industry and talk to family members, friends and colleagues, who all say the same thing: nothing has been done. We ask what has come of the investigations into their deaths? Are we any closer to finding the perpetrators?

3rd degree on Tuesday 29 November @ 8pm
