America's Next Top Model 6: The Girl Who Is Rushed To The Emergency Room TX: Monday 15 June at 9pm

The humid conditions of the international location Thailand become too much for one contestant. She collapses and is immediately rushed to hospital for exhaustion, dehydration and food poisoning.

While one model rests her feet, the rest of the competitors learn the intricate steps of the Thai dance and are challenged to perform in front of an audience. One of the girls has the crowd in stitches while another blows them away with her precision and grace.

Director of photo shoots, Jay Manuel leads the remaining five contestants through the lush jungles for an outdoor shoot where they have to pose on top of an elephant in an ad campaign for Venus razors. One modelette pulls out all the stops and impresses Jay and another wannabe decides to copy her moves.

Show some leg this week on America's Next Top Model.
