BACKSTAGE FEMALE STALKER Wednesday February 7

CAUTION: Psycho alert at Vulindlela College!

On Wednesday February 7, Nonkululeko Ndlovu makes her appearance on Backstage as hot and seductive Noxy Ciliza, a guest film lecturer.

Noxy wants a fling with our first-year writing student, “life is a gamble, so let’s roll the dice”, Chase (Tshepo Mosese). When he refuses, things get ugly. Will third-year dance student, Roxanne (Carmel Fisher), allow the new hottie to pursue her man?

Nonkululeko Ndlovu is the show’s special one-month guest actor for February.

Noxy comes highly recommended by the college’s resident film and writing coach, Sebastian Young (Duncan Lawson). This is somewhat surprising seeing as he’s been labelled chief troublemaker by vice-principal, Dr Victor Ngubane (Mandla Hlatshwayo). They have had some severe clashes regarding official protocol and procedure.

Noxy is a beautiful, highly professional television and film director: she is in demand everywhere in the industry. The fact that she does not own her own company is solely the result of her weakness: psychotic jealousy. Sebastian knows that she has been in rehabilitation. She is known to have stalked the men she loves and has an interdict against her from an ex-husband.

Nonku has performed in Talib Kweli's video, "Just to Get By", which was shot in Brooklyn, New York and was Miss Soweto 1997. She is also a professional model and has appeared in TV dramas, soapies and television commercials.

Nonku's favourite activities include horse riding, watching movies and listening to music. Her favourite artists include Talib Kweli, Bill Withers and Aretha Franklin. Keep it straight and simple is her motto. She says she loved growing up in Soweto and misses the times she played Ingedo (a game of stones).

The film industry is all about seduction and enticing the whole world into buying your idea. Will Noxy succeed with her own game of temptation?

For a totally new education - join Noxy's classes Backstage - weekdays at 6.30pm
