

Press Release

Press Release

English Premiership soccer is back Starts Sunday 20 August at 11pm Every Sunday after Silk Stalkings

e.tv welcomes a selection of the best games from The English Premier League to the regular Sunday line-up. The Premiership kicks off on the channel on Sunday 20 August at 11 pm with Manchester United vs. Fulham. Free only on e.

Directly after Silk Stalkings, tune in to England's annual sporting civil war - when men will go to battle and boys anticipate the day they too will take to the field to claim glory at all cost. Don't miss all the action and become part of the most electrifying sporting event of the season. The battle lines have been drawn as the world prepares for the most competitive soccer league in the world - we've seen grown men weep at the elimination of their teams!

The English Premier League not only boasts the most famous clubs in English club football, but also the biggest players and the most passionate fans. In this tournament, 20 of the finest teams in England will take part in the most exciting and demanding league in the world. Launched in 1992 to improve the standards of football at the highest level and also to take the game into the 21st century, the competition is now thriving, regularly attracting around 570 million global audiences in over 160 countries.

Catch all the excitement and all the drama of The English Premier League every Sunday following Silk Stalkings - free on e.

Line-up and dates of broadcast:

SUNDAY, AUGUST 20, 2006
Manchester United v Fulham

SUNDAY, AUGUST 27, 2006
Blackburn Rovers v Chelsea

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 2006
West Ham United v Aston Villa

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 2006
Manchester United v Arsenal

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 2006
Newcastle United v Everton