Forgive & Forget: The Pastor

It's not a strange phenomenon in today's sphere to have homogenous families where through divorce, one can have two or more core family structures. It is usually difficult to integrate such families and in most instances, people concentrate on the families they're with, neglecting the ones broken up through divorce.

Billy, a Pastor in the African Combination church, is one such individual and he's come to Forgive & Forget to see if he can make things right with his first family, which he deserted eight years ago following a divorce. Billy wants to apologise to his family for not being there for them as he has not kept in touch and supported his two children Phumlani and Phumza or been there for them through some of the most important times in their lives. What's even worse is that Billy did not even bother to tell his first family when he re-married. He now wants to apologise, and attempt to have a relationship with his children. How will they feel about this apology?
