Great Expectations
Modern Mommy, Traditional ties, Open Forum and Baby
Human on Great Expectations
Monday to Wednesday at 11.30am
July 10- July 12 2006

Great Expectations understands that pregnancy can be an exciting and sometimes unpredictable time. Every Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 11.30am on e.tv, presenter Sam Cowen deals with topics that are essential for the mother on maternity leave. Studio guests cover what you can expect in pregnancy, from the first warning signs, to scans and tests, and your rights as a pregnant woman at work.

On Great Expectations this week (10 July to 12 July), Sam Cowen talks about the modern mother and traditional ties. You're a modern woman with a great life and career. Along comes baby and with it family opinions on traditions. Sometimes those opinions end up driving you mad.

The following day it's Open Forum day. Great Expectations invites viewers to interact with experts in studio and they answer questions you may have.

The International series, Baby Human takes a look at life from a baby's perspective, keeping in mind that they are still trying to figure out what is going in this strange new world.

MODERN MUMMY, TRADITIONAL TIES:

Monday July 10, Great Expectations provides guidance on what to do when your heart tells you one thing but your mother in law another. Today studio guests Dani Ndebele a freelance writer, Xoli Makabane a midwife, and Vinitha Jithoo a clinical psychologist talk about the modern mother and traditions.

OPEN FORUM

Tuesday July 11, it's Open Forum day on Great Expectations. Be sure to have all your questions ready for studio guests Dr Sumayya Ebrahim an obstetrician and gynae and Wendy Pratt a midwife.

The Baby Human

Wednesday July 12, Baby Human takes a look at your baby's expanding relationships with other family members and piers.

Great Expectations – seeing the world through your baby's eyes.
