Celebrity Moms Come Clean

This week Great Expectations explores the truth about S.A celebrity moms, such as the highs and lows of parenting. We chat to local celebrity moms in this light-hearted show, with some of their hilarious moments of motherhood. Honest, witty, non-judgemental -- this is designed to make us all feel that you are together in motherhood. Celebrities talk about some of their more embarrassing moments as parents, and some of the tough times they've experienced. We identify with them.

Creche Nanny or Au Pair

In the following show, Great Expectations finds the best solution for taking care of your baby when you can't. This show looks into different care options open to little babies when mom is away. We take a look at the financial, practical and emotional pros and cons of a nanny in your home, sending baby to a creche or hiring an au pair. What do you need to organise a daily routine to sort out baby's care needs and how do you choose. We include ball park financial figures on what the different options are cost wise: live in nanny/housekeeper versus crèche versus ad hoc au pair.

Nanny 911

Also, Great Expectations brings you Nanny 911, a new international series where you get to meet Nanny Deb, a 20-year veteran of the nanny wars, who answers the cry for help from different families. Part 1, Nanny Deb answers the cry of help from the Rock family. Parents Matt and Karen have lost control of their household to their 4-year-old son Dylan and 2-year-old daughter Natalie. Dylan has a penchant for foul language and temper tantrums, while Natalie is well on her way to following in her brother's footsteps. Matt and Karen turn to Nanny 911 to tame their little terrors.
