WHEN YOU CHILD FADES AWAY

On Sunday night 10 December at 6.30pm, a heart-wrenching story in two parts kicks off on e.tv. It is a poignant British documentary about Vicki Carter, who suffers from anorexia.

This programme, with its universal significance, follows her struggle to recover from near-death when she was sixteen-years-old and attempts to get her anorexia under control.

Severely ill and down to about 30 kg, Carter had refused to be tube fed and actually fought her devastated parents in the High Court for her right not to eat.

Her parents, however, won the court case and, following the beginning of tube feeding, Carter's weight had nine months later risen to 45 kg. This programme follows the family over the ensuing nine months.
