Total Soccer: Soccer Songs A + B 4 + 11 February at 6.30pm

On Sunday night 4 February at 6.30pm, e.tv will broadcast the first part of Soccer Songs, a two-part documentary in the TOTAL SOCCER series.

It tells the story of the lengths to which two passionate and wildly eccentric soccer supporters will go in order to help their teams win.

These football anthems are modern versions of songs sung by young men during initiation rituals, as well as popular re-inventions of kwaito and gospel numbers.

This documentary follows The Bishop and Skhumbuzo (picture available) in the tense build up to the dramatic game in which Bloemfontein Celtics and Black Leopards will lock horns.

There are three points at stake and these are critical for both teams as they each try their utmost to evade relegation.

Celtics are confident they can tame Black Leopards, and the Leopards, in turn, are hungry for a victory. It's to be the clash of two soccer fans and their war cries.

There is no overwhelming favourite, but there can only be one winner. Songs are their weapons to spur their teams on to victory.

Just one week after completion of filming, The Bishop passed away most unexpectedly. Soccer Songs is dedicated to him. The Bishop, number one supporter of Bloemfontein Celtics, is no more.

The show is sponsored by TOTAL SA.
