

PRESS RELEASE

Tropika Island treasure challenge with 20something

While South Africa comes to the grip of the cold weather, the 20something team jetted off to the tropical island of Mauritius.

The team spent seven days at the island with some of Mzansi's top celebrities for the Tropika Island Treasure Challenge. Whilst some 20something may be working hard behind their computers, 20something co-presenter, Kyle White, was on holiday lazing on the white beach with a tropical cocktail in his hand.

In this week's episode:

- 20something chats to Samantha Moon, the director of the media company Stimuli, the company that coordinated the Tropika Island Treasure Challenge concept.
- Kyle White takes us through the gruelling seven day island challenge with exclusive clips and interviews from celebrities who took part in the challenge (like Pam Andrews from Rhythm City). The winner of the R1million prize money will be announced.
- Viewers stand a chance to win an all expenses paid trip for two to the island of Mauritius valued at R25 000.

Warm up and catch up to the behind the scenes adventure of the Tropika Challenge on 20something, this Wednesdays at 8pm.
