e Press Release: WWE gets the Midas touch by new owner Donald Trump

TX: Sunday 12 July at 5PM

It's not only the wrestlers that are exchanging blows on WWE, Vince McMahon and business-mogul Donald Trump are up in arms over ownership of the most popular entertaining sports show.

This comes after it was announced that Donald Trump bought over WWE. According to Vince, the price was so good; it was too difficult to refuse.

But when Donald announced his plans, which include giving back ticket money and making the show commercial free, Vince demanded his show back. A heated argument between the two ensued, which ended in true WWE style – Trump slapping Vince in the face.

Vince's unhappiness is only the tip of the iceberg. WWE shares plummeted by 7% after the new owner was announced.
