Happy 2007! A New Year, with all new entertainment. #### 7 January at 1.30pm

We welcome the New Year with what's hot in gadget land as we check out this year's hottest techno devices with Anthony Draper.

We chat to Jub Jub about his solo debut album "Rare Breed". We find out what the inspiration is behind the album, which producers he worked with and why he thinks his latest single "Good Time of your Life" is Mzansi's hottest summer track!

We preview the movie "Wolf Creek". It was supposed to be the vacation of a lifetime in the Australian Outback – full of fun, sun and adventure. But what happened to a trio of twenty-something backpackers took a wrenching detour into the depths of unrelenting terror. Based on true events, "Wolf Creek" is the haunting story of their unthinkable ordeal – a mounting white-knuckle nightmare so real it was destined to become horror legend.

We play out with Depeche Mode's "John the elevator".

14 January at 12pm

We chat to Palesa Tshukudu about her fashion label Psychic. At just 24, Palesa has made a name for herself designing and supplying her clothing to That Outfit in Greenside. She also designs for private clients and they include songbird Zamajobe, Lesego Motsepe and Basetsane Khumalo. We would like to find out more about her passion for fashion and what sets her apart from other young designers in SA.

We review the book "Urban 1, 2 & 3" with Nqoba Ngcobo who plays Vusi on "Backstage".

We preview the movie "Breaking and Entering". A young Muslim thief breaks into the office of a yuppie architect in London; afterwards the architect re-evaluates his life. A series of related events intersects the lives of the two men with a variety of other people in the seedy inner-city area of Kings Cross.

We play out with Coldplay's "The hardest part".
