

PRIME TIME. ALL THE TIME.

The South African television news environment will change forever on 1 June at 7 pm with the launch of South Africa's first 24 hour news service, the eNews Channel. The channel will only be broadcast on DStv's premium and compact bouquets on Channel 403.

The eNews Channel will offer South African, regional and international news including live reports, breaking news, sport, weather, entertainment and financial information. Included in the line-up will be current affairs shows, which will look at issues in-depth.

The on-air team is going to be lead by experienced journalists Redi Direko and Jeremy Maggs, who will host News Night, weekdays from 7 pm to 9 pm. News Night is two hours of all the day's Prime Time news, business headlines, sport and weather, including interviews with newsmakers of the day, special reports and breaking news.
