1. Indulge your Passions on e

It's coming to e.tv this Spring - the new and ultra-hip soapie that has taken the US by storm. Weekdays at 4.45pm, from Monday 20 September, viewers can tune in to enjoy all the drama, backstabbing and scandalous affairs that Passions offers. Best of all (and soapie addicts will love this), the free-to-air channel will air Passions from the very first episode ever screened internationally in 1999. South African viewers won't have missed a single episode of this worldwide hit-series if they begin watching from the launch date.

The first episode takes the viewer from the glamour of Paris to the seaside town of Harmony, the deceptively picturesque New England town and principal site where all the action in Passions takes place. On its quaint, well-scrubbed surface, Harmony looks like an idyllic little town, but this is no ordinary place. Passions explores the lives, loves and losses of four families who reside in Harmony: the Cranes, the Lopez-Fitzgeralds, the Bennetts and the Russells, each of whom have their own distinct and diverse personalities. Starring Silvana Arias, David Bailey, Kacie Borrowman, Lena Cardwell, Justin Carroll, Charles Divins, Cathy Doe and Josh Ryan Evans, the show excels at creating romantic triangles between these core families, and controversy in the fans off the show.

The wealthy Cranes, under the helm of patriarch Alistair and his bumbling, immoral son Julian, rule the town. Despite the difference in their economic status, the lives of the Cranes are constantly intertwined with the working class Lopez-Fitzgeralds, a Latino-Irish family held together by the hard-working Pilar. Not only has Pilar been the Crane family housekeeper for years, but two of her sons, Luis and Antonio, are deeply in love with the beautiful Sheridan Crane. And then, there's her daughter Theresa, who always dreamed of becoming Mrs. Ethan Crane, but wound up accidentally married to Julian! Of course Ethan turned out not be a Crane after all - his mother Ivy had lied to him for years, never telling him that his real father is Harmony's chief of police Sam Bennett.

Chief Bennett and his sweet amnesiac wife Grace Bennett have three children together -Noah, the scheming Kay, and Jessica. They are also the guardians of Grace's niece, Charity, a teenage girl with powers of goodness who is deeply in love with Pilar's youngest son, Miguel. Sam and Grace's best friends are Eve and TC Russell. The Russells are an African American family with a strong presence in the community -TC is the high school athletic coach and Eve is a respected physician. Their eldest daughter Whitney is an up-and-coming tennis player while younger daughter Simone struggles to come out of her sister's shadow. Both sisters are in love with aspiring musician Chad Harris, but Chad only has eyes for Whitney.

And let's not forget 300 year-old witch Tabitha Lenox! Tabitha is constantly causing mischief and mayhem for all of the good folks of Harmony. As viewers will see early on, Passions is not a show that takes itself too seriously - it specialises in tongue-in-cheek storylines and situations.

Passions is the creation of celebrated daytime drama veteran James E. Reilly. When the show launched in July 1999 it revolutionized the US daytime genre with unparalleled ratings growth, ground-breaking special effects and critical acclaim from TV Guide (Best Soap 1999 and 2000), Entertainment Weekly ("...comedy, drama, camp classic, soap send up, 'Passions' works."), and USA Today ("...has a gift for head-turning plots."). Reilly is considered by many to be one of the most innovative and prolific writers of the genre. Throughout his career he has created some of the most talked-about storytelling in daytime drama, including characters that have been buried alive or possessed!

As Bronwyn Keene-Young, e.tv Channel Director, says: "Passions is another exciting addition to our weekday drama line-up. On the programme schedule this popular international daytime drama is directly followed by The Young and the Restless (5.30pm) and Backstage (6.30pm). That's over two hours of great soapie entertainment!"

Passions is guaranteed to spice up boring weekday afternoons with the hottest soapie action and the quirkiest storylines this country has ever seen. Tune in Monday to Friday - from 20 September at 4.45pm, only on e.

Brief Character History (from the character's point of view)

Alistair Crane is the patriarch of the Crane family, which is not only the wealthiest family in Harmony but also one of the wealthiest in the entire world. As a young man, he married Katherine, herself a child of wealthy parents. They had a son Julian, but the birth was hard on Katherine and she was advised not to have another child. When Julian was a teenager, Katherine defied the doctors orders and became pregnant a second time. She gave birth to a daughter, Sheridan. Their daughter's birth significantly weakened Katherine, and although she lived on for a number of years, she spent that time virtually bedridden, dying when Sheridan was an adolescent.

Alistair always blamed Sheridan for her mother's death. Although he did protect her when Sheridan killed Martin Fitzgerald shortly after Katherine's death, his idea of protection was to send her off to a mental institution in Europe and to make sure that she never spoke to anyone of what happened to keep their family name from being dragged through the mud. Julian he ruled with an iron fist, taking advantage of Julian's spinelessness and desire to please. In fact, he was responsible for ending Julian and Eve's relationship, and even plotted the death of their child, a son who would be about the same age as Sheridan had he lived (on the other hand, though, Alistair never actually saw the body...).

After breaking up Julian and Eve, Alistair turned his attention toward adding to the Crane respectability. He threatened to disown Julian unless Julian courted Ivy Winthrop, daughter of governor Harrison Winthrop. While Alistair and Harrison concentrated on making sure that Sam Bennett wasn't able to send Ivy any love letters, Julian's pursuit of Ivy and Sam's not having written for weeks convinced her that Julian would make the perfect husband. Ivy learned that Julian was forced to court her the night of their wedding, and ran to Sam. She told Alistair and Harrison the next day that she was leaving Julian for Sam, but Alistair and Harrison informed her that the Winthrop family had no money, and that if she wanted to live the life to which she had become accustomed, she had to stay married to Julian. When faced with Sam's love or Julian's money, Ivy chose to stay.

Alistair has been fighting for years to keep the Crane name respectable, and to keep Sheridan away from Luis Lopez-Fitzgerald. He kept Ivy in line for years by threatening to reveal her secret (the secret itself was never revealed, but since Alistair knew about Ivy spending her wedding night with Sam, he may have known Ethan was not Julian's son). After Julian made a public spectacle of himself with one of his paramours, Alistair disowned his only son, making Ethan his sole heir. Then once Ethan postponed his wedding to Gwen to explore his feelings for Theresa, Alistair disinherited him as well. When Ethan was discovered to not be a Crane at all, Alistair cut Ethan out of the family forever.

Alistair launched a number of plots to keep Sheridan and Luis apart, starting with his plan to play the tape of Sheridan's hypnosis session with Eve proving that Sheridan killed Martin Fitzgerald, but moving on when that plot didn't work. Alistair decided that the best thing to do was to kill Sheridan. He used his influence over Julian to make his son help him, and launched numerous plans to end Sheridan's life, including poisoning her wedding ring and blowing up the boat that Sheridan and Luis were on in Bermuda. That plan seemed to work, as a body was found and was positively identified as Sheridan Crane. Both Julian and Alistair assumed Sheridan was dead until Sheridan returned to Harmony with her new fiancé, Antonio. Luckily for her, Alistair doesn't seem as concerned about Antonio as he was about Luis, as he has left her alone.

Most recently, Alistair has kept himself occupied by sleeping with his secretaries, and plotting the downfall of Theresa Lopez-Fitzgerald. In Alistair's mind, it's bad enough that Theresa robbed him of his heir of choice (Ethan), but during the time that Theresa thought she was married to Julian, she attempted to claim his entire fortune, company, and estate for herself. Although she was sentenced to death for 'killing' Julian, Alistair used his influence to pull some strings to have Theresa saved from the death penalty (initially everyone thought she was dead) so that he could enact his plan of revenge against her.

Alistair was recently discovered to be the man behind the 'Charlie' mask. As Charlie, he pretended to be a psychotically obsessed lesbian working for the hospital who moved in with Beth so that they could break up Luis and Sheridan to steal Sheridan's baby. With Beth raising the baby and Sheridan told it's dead, Alistair made Charlie disappear. He manipulated Antonio into committing Sheridan to the psych ward, convincing him it would be best for her, and the manipulated Dr. Ackland into giving his daughter electroshock treatments.

Suddenly everything changed when it was discovered that Katherine was still alive. In reality, she had left Alistair in the mid-eighties. He had searched for her for years, finally finding her with her lover, Martin Fitzgerald, in Mexico. Once Alistair realised where she was, he was determined to punish her for having the gall to leave him. At the same time, he was trying to stop Julian and Eve from searching for their long-lost child together, but when Julian kept pushing, he finally told him that Chad Harris was their son, and that Whitney was sleeping with her half-brother!

Assisted her mother in taking Little Ethan from Theresa for revenge against Sarah's death.

Brief Character History (from the character's point of view)

Gwen is the only child of Jonathan and Rebecca Hotchkiss from a small town outside Harmony, and has spent her entire life fighting to prove she is just as good as the son her father never had. She met Ethan Crane when they were twelve and their boarding schools had a joint mixer. The two became fast friends, and soon much more. They later went to a co-ed high-school together before heading off to separate universities. Although Gwen was always faithful to Ethan, she knew of his many indiscretions, but forgave him, because she loved him. After Ethan graduated high-school, she convinced him that they should spend some time in Harmony, where his family lived. She wanted Ethan to get to know the citizens of Harmony, since they would one day live there and raise their own family. Things started going wrong the moment they got to town, because a mysterious young woman kept spilling things on Ethan's head. Ethan was convinced that she was a stalker, but Gwen tried to convince him it was probably just a young girl with a crush on the Crane heir. Then she had to defend the girl again when Ethan called her a gold-digger. They soon realised that the girl in question was none other than Theresa Lopez-Fitzgerald, but a heart-felt speech from her friend Whitney convinced Ethan not to press charges.

Gwen and Ethan soon began a tentative friendship with Theresa, but Gwen began to wonder about Theresa's interest in Ethan. Theresa always seemed to turn up, and Gwen caught the two of them in compromising situations more than once. It wasn't long before Gwen became convinced that Theresa was after Ethan. Even Theresa's insistence that she had a boyfriend didn't dissuade Gwen...it wasn't until she met Chuck that she admitted she had been suspicious for no reason. Gwen and Ethan then welcomed Theresa into their circle of friends. Gwen was thrilled when Theresa told her that she and Chuck were engaged to be married, and full of righteous indignation when Theresa told them Chuck had broken things off with her because she was from the wrong kind of family. In an effort to get Theresa's mind off what was going on and also to help her future career in fashion, Gwen and Ethan hired Theresa to plan their wedding. Because she was trying to finish up a lot of business before the marriage, Gwen was frequently out of town, but she trusted her friend and her fiancé to plan the perfect wedding.

Gwen's mother showed up in Harmony a few weeks before the wedding, and immediately began playing on Gwen's insecurities about Ethan's history, telling Gwen that Theresa was a liar, and a gold-digger. Gwen kept defending Theresa to her mother, but she couldn't forget Ethan's past, or her original suspicions about Theresa. She rushed out to the prom boat to confront the two, but when she asked Theresa if she was in love with Ethan, Theresa denied it. Gwen apologized for over-reacting, and they all went back to planning the wedding. When Sheridan couldn't be in the wedding party because of the attempts on her life, Gwen asked Theresa to be her maid of honor. Gwen was looking forward to a new life with the man she loved, and they planned a huge engagement party at the Hotchkiss mansion, with all of their family and friends in attendance. That night, Ethan told Gwen that he had been cheating on her with Theresa, and he wanted to postpone the wedding. Gwen was furious. Not only was Ethan cheating on her again, but it was with her friend Theresa! Gwen suddenly realised that her suspicions about Theresa had been right all along, and went to confront her. When Theresa opened the door and let her in, Gwen went crazy. She began swinging a bat around, furious at how she was betrayed. Pilar came into the room and tried to stop her, but Gwen locked Pilar in a closet, realising that Pilar had to know the truth, yet had continued to treat Gwen like a daughter. When Theresa and Gwen ended up in Theresa's room, Gwen was shocked to see that Theresa had created a shrine in there to Ethan, and realised that Theresa had been after Ethan since long before they ever came to Harmony. Ethan soon showed up, but he didn't believe Gwen when she told him what she had found out.

When Ethan approached Gwen to break off the engagement so he could explore his feelings for Theresa, Gwen had a suggestion...that he date both of them. Gwen believed it was only a matter of time before Ethan got tired of Theresa and came back to her, and she loved him too much to let him go. Ethan agreed to the idea, and had one date each with Gwen and Theresa. Then Sheridan died. Gwen was there for Ethan when her best friend died. Theresa had come to the house to see Ethan, but Gwen was still angry at Theresa for what she had done, and still convinced that Theresa was only in it for the money, so she told Ethan Theresa was never there. On Christmas Eve, Ethan asked Gwen to accompany him to Church. Gwen was happy, because she thought this meant he was ready to commit to her. But at the Church, Ethan proposed to Theresa, which devastated Gwen. The next day, she went to the Crane mansion, where she broke off their engagement, and wished him well. She was ready to move on with her life when her mother dropped a bombshell on her...Ethan Crane was really Sam Bennett's son! Rebecca had found the information on Theresa's laptop, and learned it had been there for months. Gwen was more convinced than ever that it was money that motivated Theresa and not love. Gwen was consumed with a desire to get revenge on Theresa, and Rebecca suggested e-mailing the information to the tabloids and blaming it on Theresa. Gwen refused, but Rebecca convinced her that Theresa would be exposed as the liar she is, and that she [Rebecca] would make sure Ethan didn't suffer, because she would have Julian adopt him after the truth was exposed. Gwen reluctantly agreed; it was the only way she could see to expose Theresa.

Gwen regretted agreeing to her mother's plan immediately after, but by then, there was nothing she could do. Rebecca continued to remind Gwen that it was the only way they could expose Theresa. While Gwen wanted to expose Theresa more than anything, she was realistic...she told her mother that she knew Ethan might still choose Theresa even after he learned the truth. But Gwen was more than willing to accept it if he did. She wanted Ethan to be happy, but she wanted him to know the truth. The night that the truth came out, Gwen was devastated. She saw how much pain Ethan was in, and she would have done anything to take it away. Her guilt kept eating away at her. Theresa continued to remind Gwen that she had won Ethan, which infuriated Gwen. She called the tabloid, demanding that they publish the fact that the information came from Theresa's computer. They finally did, on the day Theresa was set to marry Ethan. But the plan backfired, when Ethan made it clear that he didn't believe Theresa was involved in any way, and he still planned to marry her. Gwen accepted that she and Ethan were over, and decided that if she couldn't have the man she loved as her husband, she could have him as her friend. She went to him to confess the truth about what she had done, but he stopped her, telling her that what was in the past was over and done with.

Gwen was absolutely shocked to learn that Theresa had married Julian in Bermuda after her aborted marriage to Ethan. But she was even more shocked when it was revealed that Theresa was pregnant with Julian's child, and that the annulment papers she signed were not valid. Rebecca and Ivy frequently schemed against Theresa and tried to enlist Gwen's help, but Gwen had enough of that. She told them she wasn't going to be like Theresa, and went to Ethan, telling him of the schemes the two women were hatching against Theresa. Gwen was there to comfort Ethan (who by this time had broken things off with Theresa), and it wasn't long before their old passion was rekindled. When Ethan helped Theresa escape from jail, Gwen went to the cabin to meet him, and the two shared a passionate goodbye...Ethan knew that his future was over when he helped his client escape death row. She was willing to give up everything to be with him, but Ethan said he just couldn't let her. Then, when Theresa went into labor, Gwen was there to deliver the baby, but was stabbed in the back by a pre-eclamptic Theresa. When Theresa was executed for murdering Julian, Ethan and Gwen knew that chapter of their lives was over, and they could get back to their futures together. Gwen was as shocked as anyone when Theresa returned from the dead, especially when she realised that Theresa was more determined than ever to come between her and Ethan. When she realised Theresa was using her newborn son to manipulate Ethan into spending time with her, she exposed her immediately.

Gwen and Ethan were ready to get engaged when, once again, Ethan began sneaking around with Theresa. Gwen finally decided she had enough, she just couldn't take it anymore. She accepted a job in New York, and was planning to leave Harmony when she discovered she was pregnant. Rebecca tried to convince her to use the baby to hold on to Ethan, but Gwen refused. She had never schemed to hold on to Ethan, and she wasn't about to start now. She still hadn't forgiven herself for the role in the tabloid scheme that had caused so many problems. When Ethan learned she was pregnant, he immediately proposed...but Gwen turned him down. She didn't want to be a pity wife. It took some doing, but Ethan was finally able to convince Gwen that he truly loved her, not just the baby. They made plans to marry, but it almost didn't happen. On the day of the wedding, Gwen learned that Ethan had taken a job at Crane Industries, and she slapped him at the Church in front of everyone! Gwen soon realised that Theresa was directly involved, and decided she had wasted enough of her life on Theresa. She married the man she loved in front of assorted friends and family.

Unfortunately, she still fears that she will one day lose Ethan to Theresa, as none of the plans to expose her ever worked. Lately she has been trying to support Sheridan, who is pregnant and torn between two men. Luis' ex-girlfriend Beth is reminding her a lot of Theresa, and she is trying to warn Sheridan against her. Soon she began having problems with her pregnancy, and her mother told her that Theresa would never stop trying to break up her and Ethan, and if she lost that baby, Ethan would fall for Theresa again. They went to L.A. to get away from Theresa and to see a specialist, not realising Theresa had also gone there. After learning that Theresa was out to get Ethan again, Gwen's stress level increased, and during a confrontation with Theresa, Gwen launched herself at Theresa after Theresa made it clear she would take Ethan from Gwen and the baby, and as a result of the altercation, Gwen landed in the hospital, and the baby died at birth. A distraught Gwen decided she wanted nothing to do with Ethan or Theresa. Ethan finally convinced her that he would be faithful to her, and she asked him to promise her that he would never go running to Theresa again. When she learned that Rebecca planned to take Little Ethan from Theresa, rather than being shocked and disgusted as she would have been in the past, Gwen agreed with her, saying it was about time Theresa face the consequences of her actions.

Gwen vowed to put Theresa in the past and get on with her marriage with Ethan, and the two planned to start their family again, but suddenly Gwen began to be suspicious of Beth Wallace. She believed that Beth was doing the same things to Sheridan that Theresa had done to her, and became convinced that Beth had been lying about being pregnant, and that Sheridan was right about Beth's baby being hers. While investigating Beth, there were two attempts on Gwen's life, both of which had convenient explanations. Gwen finally got her meeting with Dr. Culver, but instead of exposing Beth, he informed her that due to the fight with Theresa in L.A., she could never have children. A devastated Ethan and Gwen returned to the mansion, where they learned that only moments earlier, Theresa had been wishing that they would never have a family.

Gwen encountered Theresa trespassing on the grounds and told her to leave, but Theresa refused. She insisted on apologizing to Gwen. Knowing she was in no state to deal with Theresa, Gwen continually asked her to leave, warning her that if she continued to badger her she would physically make her stop. When Theresa followed Gwen into the bedroom and told her that it was her fault that Sarah was dead because God took away her daughter to punish her for marrying Ethan, Gwen lost it. She tried to physically force Theresa to leave the room, but Theresa wasn't done. In a replay of the L.A. scene, Gwen and Theresa's struggle ended up with Theresa flying out the window. Gwen was shocked at the tragedy, but experienced a moment of disappointment that the accidental fall hadn't hurt Theresa in any way. After reassuring Rebecca that Theresa wouldn't try to lie and claim that Gwen pushed her, Gwen told Rebecca to go ahead with her plans to have Ethan and Gwen adopt Little Ethan, who Gwen had come to care deeply for.

Gwen and Ethan had decided to use a surrogate to have a child, but were shocked to learn that Theresa had drugged and kidnapped the surrogate, locking her in a closet to have herself implanted so that she could threaten Gwen and Ethan if they did not give her Little Ethan, whom the courts had taken away from her because she was deemed unfit. Gwen agreed to return Little Ethan to Theresa once she gave them their child, until she and Ethan overheard Theresa tell Pilar that she planned to not only keep Ethan and Gwen's child, but to take Little Ethan from them as well!

Brief Character History

Rebecca and Ivy Winthrop were friends since childhood. Despite having been married for over twenty-five years, Jonathan and Rebecca had only one child together, a daughter named Gwen. Rebecca was thrilled when Ethan and Gwen met and fell in love, because she always wanted her daughter to be rich and powerful. When she found out that Theresa and Ethan were involved, she immediately warned her daughter. Rebecca recognized the same lies and manipulations from what she herself had done as a younger woman...feigned friendship to steal another woman's man.

Rebecca's warnings didn't help, because Ethan postponed the wedding and began seeing both women. After Gwen returned the ring, Rebecca was determined to get not only her daughter, but also herself in the Crane house, and get revenge on the little gold-digger for scheming to break up Gwen and Ethan's relationship in the first place. It's possible Rebecca saw her husband in Theresa, as he had once married her for her considerable fortune.

She began an affair with Julian Crane, the plan to eventually get him to ask her to marry him. When she found the proof of Ethan's paternity on Theresa's laptop, she used Theresa's e-mail to send it to the tabloids. Most recently she filed for a divorce from her husband so she could land Julian for herself. She married Julian in a quickie wedding ceremony after he signed the annulment papers with Theresa, but when it was discovered that Julian and Theresa had slept together, that nullified the documents, so Rebecca was out on her ear. Although it was eventually discovered that Julian and Theresa's marriage was invalid, there was no mention of the fact that Rebecca's marriage to Julian was therefore valid, and Rebecca had to blackmail Julian to marry her by threatening to expose Eve to her family.

Blackmailing Julian wasn't her only plan though. Rebecca decided to turn the tables on Theresa and make Theresa pay for everything she had done to Gwen over the years by taking her son away. She had an even deeper motive; she planned to arrange for Ethan and Gwen to adopt Theresa's son, to replace the child that they had lost. Although Rebecca came to care deeply about her step-son, she firmly believed he was better off without Theresa in his life, and knew that Gwen and Ethan could provide him with both love and stability.

Brief Character History

Eve was originally the only child of Warren Johnson and Tanya Lincoln Johnson (she has since been given a sister). Raised in a wealthy home and loved by her grandmother, for whom she was named, Eve's first pain was suffered when her beloved grandmother died when she was eight years old. As a teenager, she got involved with a teenaged Julian Crane while she was singing in a jazz club in Boston. She and Julian were deeply in love, but when she found herself pregnant, she and Julian separated, and she gave birth to a son in Boston with only her good friend Crystal Harris in attendance. She never told Julian of her pregnancy, and indeed, Julian had no idea at the time that she was carrying his child. She resumed her relationship with Julian, but when she met T.C. Russell, she broke things off with Julian permanently, because she wanted a chance at a life with T.C. By the time she married T.C., she had a degree from the best medical schools in the world.

Eve made certain that T.C. had no idea of her past. She hid her privileged upbringing to an extent, saying that she was raised by two maiden aunts after the deaths of her parents. She explained away the money that Alistair Crane had given her to stay out of Julian's life by claiming it was her trust fund. A few years into their marriage, Eve became pregnant with their eldest daughter Whitney, and a year later gave birth to Simone. All the while she was careful to make sure that no one in her family found out the truth about her. She has hidden the existence of the son she was told died at birth, and has never revealed to her husband or daughters how much she once truly loved Julian Crane, before his father destroyed all that was good in him.

Eve's life was picture perfect until people from her past started showing up, most notably a young man named Chad Harris. Born in Harmony around the same time her son was born in Boston, she recognized the name Harris the moment she heard it. Things were made even stickier when Orville Perkins, an elderly man with a mysterious (and never discovered) connection to Eve's past showed up, warning Eve about Chad getting involved with her daughters. The only hard proof that ever existed of her past with Julian was a series of erotic pictures that she and Julian had posed for, and which Orville had in his possession. When the statue got near Charity, she began seeing visions of Julian and Eve as lovers, but luckily for Eve, Charity opted to keep quiet about what she saw. Ivy wasn't as agreeable though...once she got her hands on the statue, she used the photographs to blackmail Eve into helping her sabotage Sam and Grace's marriage so that Ivy could manipulate Sam into coming back to her.

Eve thought she was safe when she believed the pictures destroyed, and when she managed to get Orville into an old folk's home, but Ivy continued to use her knowledge to blackmail her. First she manipulated Eve into saying that Ethan was born a few weeks premature so that Sam didn't think there was any possibility that Ethan was his son (a fact that hasn't been addressed since), then much later she bribed Eve into saying that Grace was young John Hastings' mother, and therefore, David Hastings' true wife. She was one of the prime suspects in Julian's murder investigation, but since Julian has miraculously come back from the dead, everyone seems to have forgotten that he was shot in the first place. Eve nearly destroyed Ivy when Ivy arranged to have Whitney drugged to prove to Eve that she could destroy her and her entire family, but she kowtowed to Ivy's demands, and will do whatever Ivy asks of her.

Eve thought she was finally getting things back on track. Her daughter, Simone, is very in love with her boyfriend, Chad, and her daughter, Whitney, is concentrating on her tennis career. But then a woman from Eve's past showed up in town...her sister Liz. Liz had never forgiven Eve for not coming back to the family after her son died, even though their parents had disowned Eve when she refused to get rid of her child. Liz spent months threatening to tell T.C. the truth, causing Eve to lean even heavier on Julian. Liz finally sprung Eve's aunt Irma from the nursing home (which also revealed that Liz and Eve were only half-sisters, not full sisters) and brought her to Harmony, where she told everything. Eve left the house and after singing her heart out at the Blue Note, fell into bed with Julian Crane. But she still loves T.C.

Endora was conceived on a night when both her parents were under the influence of MarTimmies. As a demon baby, she is a greater threat to her father than even he realises. Since birth, Endora 'made things happen' with her own special brand of magic, and was often used by Tabitha or Kay to try to break up Miguel and Charity. Unfortunately for Tabitha, Endora is not easily controlled, and sometimes her magic does things even Tabitha isn't expecting.

Has made many (unsuccessful) attempts to kill Charity, and to get Charity to kill Miguel.

Tried to kill herself when her plans to destroy Charity weren't working.

Burned down Faith's house in Castleton, killing Faith and leaving her daughter, Charity, with amnesia, then torched a Castleton gas station attendant.

Brief Character History

A witch over three hundred years old, Tabitha has been in Harmony for that entire time in one incarnation or another. Originally burned to death by the puritans in the 1600s (the ancestors of Grace, Ivy, and Julian), Tabitha set the fire in Boston that resulted in Grace's amnesia. Tabitha is over three hundred years old, and is Harmony's most notable ex-witch. For years her powers kept the Standish women from reaching their full powers, but when she failed to kill Charity Standish, the most powerful Standish woman to date, she was stripped of her own powers. Since then, she has to try to appease the evil in the basement. Now she and her little friend Timmy just try to avoid Hecuba, a witch Tabitha imprisoned in a cave hundreds of years ago.

Tabitha has had countless plots to defeat the goodness in Harmony, particularly Charity Standish, but none of them ever worked. Through flashbacks, viewers have learned that years ago, she cursed all the citizens of Harmony after they burned her at the stake. She cursed them again when her Timmy recently died, and was determined to get revenge. She was all set to kill Julian Crane...until she became his lover!

Brief Character History

Timmy was created by Tabitha shortly after the show started. She used her powers to bring him to life from doll form, shortly before her powers were taken away. Even though soon lost her powers, Timmy never permanently reverted back to doll form -- he was able switch back and forth at will.

Timmy functioned as Tabitha's conscience on the show. His love for Tabitha was tempered only by his love for Charity, who he saw as pure and innocent. He hated what Tabitha and Hecuba were doing to Charity, but he knew that Hecuba and Tabitha could destroy him. His favorite hobby was making and drinking his martimmies.

Timmy became a real boy, his wish having been granted by the Angel Girl, and Tabitha began introducing him around as her great-grandnephew, Timmy Lenox. Soon he began a journey to find the Demon's Horn, so he could save Charity from Zombie Charity. With an unlikely ally (Julian Crane!), Timmy found the Demon's horn and brought it back to Harmony to save Charity. Unfortunately, while Timmy was able to save Charity, he was not able to save himself. He lost his life in the battle with Zombie Charity, and his heart was donated to Charity so that she could live.

Past Lives

In one of his past lives, he was Captain Franklin Liva, ship's mate on the Titanic. He saved the life of Susan Lyme Sudbury after her beloved, Liam, died. The two later married, and had four children (Franklin Jr. [who became a priest], Bettie L., Anne J., and Oscar M.), while being blissfully happy.

In one of his past lives, he was Andrew, in love with the beautiful Patience, who ran off with a pirate, Harry. When Patience asked him to let her go, he agreed.

Brief Character History

When Brian first appeared on the scene, he was a fisherman in Bermuda who just happened to find Sheridan Crane floating in the surf. He began to care for the unconscious woman, and before too long, found himself falling in love with her. When she woke up, they discovered that she had amnesia. She called herself Diana, a name that meant a lot to her. Brian spent a lot of time with Diana, and soon realised he was completely in love with her. She doesn't return his feelings, but she doesn't reject them. When Brian was asked to take a woman's boat back to Harmony, he initially refused, only agreeing when Diana begged...he just couldn't say no to her. He has no idea what's awaiting her in Harmony...but there is something awaiting him there as well.

On a practice boat ride, it was revealed that Brian O'Leary was really Antonio Lopez-Fitzgerald, the long-lost son of Pilar and Martin! He had left Harmony a few years earlier, shortly after Luis graduated from high-school. It's unknown why, exactly, he left, but it is known that Julian Crane was threatening him. He ended up on a small island in Bermuda, where he met and began a relationship with Liz, a local hoteleer. By the time viewers got to meet him, though, the two were already finished. Luis is harboring a lot of resentment toward Brian for his leaving the family behind.

Despite many reservations, Brian has agreed to take Diana to Harmony. When he arrives, he is assailed by memories of his former life. He refuses to go into Christmas Eve mass, but does go to the Lopez-Fitzgerald family home that night, and while Pilar sleeps, tells her how much he loves her and how sorry he is that he ran off on the family. But before he gets a chance to actually talk to her, he has a run-in with Ethan, and flees. They return to the island of St. Lisa's, where Brian stays close to the hotel, helping Diana learn the ropes. He is falling more in love with her by the day, and decides that he's known her long enough (a few months), and proposes marriage.

Diana isn't interested in tying the knot with Brian yet, but she doesn't want to stop their relationship either. The two slowly get closer and closer to each other. After a night of gambling (where Brian runs into an old acquaintance, Nick Bozman, with whom he shares a dark past), the two return to their room...and make love. Days later, Brian realises that Diana was gambling in the casino, and managed to lose thousands of dollars. He plans to go back into racing cars to raise the money to pay off her debts, but after learning from Liz that Brian nearly died in a car accident, she agrees to run away with Nick rather than risk Brian's dying.

Brian manages to get Diana away from Nick just in time, and the two go back to planning their future together. Brian continued with his plans to pay off Diana's debts by racing, and it all seemed to be going well until the car crashed, and Brian ended up in the hospital. It was shortly after this, and after discovering that he had a fatal illness that could kill him, that Brian decided to take Diana to Harmony...to his family. They returned to Harmony, and that was when Diana's memory returned to her...she was really Sheridan Crane! Not only that, but she was engaged to two men...Luis Lopez-Fitzgerald and his brother, Antonio!

Soon after returning to Harmony, Brian began to go by the name he grew up with, Antonio Lopez-Fitzgerald. Feeling strong in his love for Sheridan and his reunion with his family, Antonio accepted that he may soon die, and began planning his wedding with Sheridan. Unfortunately, their wedding and elopement plans were often delayed by problems with Antonio's condition, including headaches, fainting spells, and most recently, blindness. Antonio and Sheridan were able to say their vows, Antonio not realising that Sheridan was being unfaithful with Luis.

Unfortunately, she was spending time with Luis when she needed to give Antonio his medication, and he ended up in the hospital, his life on the line unless he got an experimental drug.

Luckily the medication worked, and when Antonio woke up in the hospital, he soon learned that Sheridan was pregnant (he doesn't realise that his own brother, Luis, may be the father), which overjoyed him. He has done everything he can to make sure she can take her mind off the stress of her pregnancy, including encouraging her to plan Luis and Beth's upcoming wedding as a way to also take her mind off her dreams about baby-stealing clowns. The only thing in the world that Antonio wants more than his wife's happiness is his brother's, but he doesn't realise that their happiness will cost him his.

Antonio was just starting to enjoy his life as a married man when his wife disappeared. At first, knowing the stress she was under, he believed that she had gone away for awhile. When he began to believe she had been kidnapped, he was frantic, for both her and their baby. He was relieved when they found her in the icy water, but his horror was renewed once he realised that the baby was still missing. At the same time he realised that his wife had feelings for his brother. He still holds out hope for his marriage though, because he firmly believes that Sheridan never would have said those vows if she hadn't meant them, but he has come to believe that the baby may not be his (even though there is just as good a chance it is).

Wanting to do the best thing for Sheridan, Antonio allowed himself to be manipulated into committing her to the mental ward by Alistair, who convinced Antonio that Luis was trying to manipulate Sheridan, and that by giving her time to heal and to get over her child's death, Sheridan would be able to make her own decisions without Luis controlling her. Antonio wanted what was best for Sheridan and agreed, but once he realised what Alistair was planning, he and Luis joined forces to try to free Sheridan.

Past Lives

In one past life, he was Marc Antony, the married lover of Cleopatra who fathered children with her before the two committed suicide together.

In one past life he was Harry, a pirate in love with Patience, who was betrothed to Andrew.

Brief Character History

Luis is the second eldest of five children. A superstar in high-school (captain of the football, baseball, and basketball team, class president and valedictorian, and a major ladies man), Luis had dreams of being a lawyer, but his father's disappearance when he was a young child left him in the care of his older brother Antonio, and when Antonio left town after Luis graduated high-school, it meant he had to stay home, get a job, and support his mother and siblings. He even broke off his relationship with Beth Wallace, his high-school sweetheart and his first love, because he was afraid he would leave her like his father left his mother.

He first met Sheridan Crane when she crashed into his police car (twice!), and sparks continued to fly when it turned out that her community service was to be played out at the community center where he was youth director. They had a couple of uneventful dates, but nothing really came of it, and she started dating his best friend, Hank Bennett, with Luis' blessing. Luis began dating Beth again briefly, but was too into Sheridan to be as into rekindling their old love as Beth was. She slowly faded out of the picture.

Sheridan and Luis continued to dance around each other until Luis was assigned by the FBI to be Sheridan's bodyguard. They kept getting closer and closer, until they finally admitted their feelings to each other. Unfortunately, Sheridan was shot shortly after. Devastated by her death, Luis was inconsolable...until it turned out she was actually alive. After recovering in the hospital, Luis and Sheridan reaffirmed their love for each other, and Luis gave his blessing to Theresa and Ethan's engagement.

After a LOT of false starts, they finally managed to make love shortly after Ethan was revealed to be Sam Bennett's son. They're making tentative plans for the future...starting with their engagement! Unfortunately, the double-wedding didn't go off as planned...and now, Sheridan is presumed dead. In the months since Sheridan died, Luis has begun a downward spiral, and Hank finally set him up with Beth, knowing how much they once loved each other, believing it's time his friend stops looking for Sheridan around every corner. During this time, Luis also discovered that his brother is alive and well, but will not come home.

Luis finally accepted that Sheridan was gone, even though he searched daily for any news of her, which included looking up their past lives on the Titanic. He began to move on with Beth, and the two had just become engaged when a miracle happened, and Sheridan was back in Harmony...only she was engaged to his brother, Antonio! The two carried on their relationship in secret once it was learned that Antonio had a life-threatening illness. Luis finally gave Sheridan an ultimatum...either she break up with Antonio, or he was going to move on. Sheridan chose Antonio, and out of pique, Luis asked Beth to marry him. He and Sheridan were going to elope the night before the wedding, but missed each other at the judge's office.

On the day of the wedding, Beth's mother collapsed in the aisle, and while Antonio and Sheridan did get married, Luis and Beth did not. When the two couples happened to check into the same honeymoon hotel, Luis and Sheridan met in the hallway, and cleared up the confusion about the elopement. Unfortunately, Sheridan had neglected to give Antonio his medication that night, and he ended up needing to be hospitalized. When Luis admitted that he would rather see Antonio dead than on an experimental drug (knowing that with Antonio dead, Sheridan would be his), Pilar slapped her son across the face, but soon begged for forgiveness.

Luis continued to pine after Sheridan, and when he learned that Sheridan was pregnant, he was thrilled...until he realised that his brother could be the father. Shortly after that, Beth announced to him that she was pregnant as well. Luis and Sheridan decided that they would raise her child and Beth's child together, with no interference from Beth or Antonio. Luis has grown to think of Sheridan's child as belonging to him, even though there is a very real possibility that Antonio is the father. Things took a turn when Sheridan was kidnapped. Antonio and Luis searched frantically for weeks, and finally found her. Now Luis is determined to find her child as well.

Brief Character History

Maria Ivy Lopez-Fitzgerald would never have been conceived if her father had been allowed to decide for himself who he made love to. Kay used the essence of Charity to physically turn herself into Charity, and when Miguel made love to her, he believed he was making love to his soulmate, and not his former best friend. Even before her birth she was used as a tool of manipulation by her mother to break up Miguel and Charity. She was born nearly two months premature, and almost died. It was Charity's promise to Death that she would give up her true love, Miguel, that saved young Maria's life. Shortly thereafter, her mother gave her a name...Maria for Miguel's aunt and grandmother, after Tabitha convinced Kay that the best way to manipulate Miguel was through using a name important to him, and Ivy for Ivy Winthrop Crane, the woman who has been seeking to destroy Kay's family for years, because Kay was furious with Grace for not supporting her manipulating and scheming to break up Miguel and Charity. She also gave the baby Miguel's last name. Kay was released soon after, but it was a number of weeks before Maria was released, going home at Thanksgiving.

Brief Character History

The second-youngest of the Lopez-Fitzgerald clan, Miguel was a ladies' man in high-school. He had numerous girlfriends and dates, but the moment he met Charity Standish, his heart belonged to her forever. He had no idea that his best friend Kay (who just happened to be Charity's cousin) was after him in a romantic way. Miguel and Charity had been working hard to convince Faith to stay in Castleton when a fire ended Faith's life and Charity came to Harmony. Miguel and Kay went on a desperate search for her after she disappeared and luckily were able to find her, and then Charity moved into the Bennett home. Although their relationship was first hampered by amnesia (a Standish family trait), she eventually remembered who he was when he saved her life a second time. Miguel and Charity soon became the 'perfect couple', deeply in love with each other and dreaming of a future together, not realising that Kay was plotting against them the entire time.

Miguel and Charity made plans to become engaged as soon as both were 18, but then Charity started acting...strange. She would alternately push him away and then hang on to him. Miguel couldn't understand why the woman he loved was acting so strange, but none of it seemed to matter the night that Charity and he made love. Miguel was both shocked and disgusted after they made love to see that it wasn't Charity in the bed with him, but Kay. Miguel has had no luck explaining how he ended up in bed with his soulmate's cousin, mainly because he does not realise that Kay used dark magic to turn herself into her cousin. When Miguel made love to Kay, she actually was Charity. Charity was then discovered to have been encased in an ice block for the last year (by Kay, which is as yet unknown), and Miguel threatened to kill anyone who was prepared to pull the plug when Charity was being kept at the hospital.

Charity eventually recovered enough to be released, and Miguel did what he had wanted to do for a long time...he asked her to marry him. The two began planning their wedding, oblivious to the schemes of Miguel's 'best friend' Kay. Every time they were alone together, Kay tried to make Miguel feel guilty about the night they were together, calling him down for taking her virginity then dumping her. Miguel kept trying to make her see that it was all a mistake...he had never loved her and never would, and would never have chosen to be with her. Everything came crashing down at Charity and Miguel's wedding, when Kay fainted, and it was discovered that she was pregnant with Miguel's baby! Charity immediately broke things off with Miguel, and Sam Bennett immediately launched himself at the man who had impregnated his daughter.

Miguel had to fight long and hard, especially with Kay constantly pressuring him to be with her, but thanks in part to Grace Bennett, he was able to convince Charity that he loved her. Although she was Kay's mother, Grace's special powers showed her that Kay was being ruled by evil, and Grace has always known that Miguel and Charity were soulmates. Now Miguel and Charity are planning their future together, a future that while it does not include Kay, does include their daughter. Miguel was terrified when his daughter was born early and nearly died, and doesn't realise that Kay has been manipulating the situation so that he cannot seek comfort from the woman that he loves.

After Charity's near death experience in Castleton, Miguel was horrified that the dog he thought he'd speared was really Kay, and that the injuries she sustained made it impossible for her to ever have any more children. That didn't change the fact that he was not in love with Kay; despite her numerous pleas, even his feelings of friendship for Kay had long fallen away. After saying goodbye to her, he left Harmony to bring back his true love Charity after learning that she left town.

She was born shortly before her father disappeared, and was less than a year old when her mother sent her to Mexico to live with her sister because she couldn't put the burden of raising an infant on Antonio, who was already having to raise his younger siblings. She has not come back to Harmony since 1985, and was seldom mentioned.

When Pilar became ill, Miguel finally decided to call Paloma when their mother was on her death bed. Upon meeting Paloma in Mexico, it was soon apparent that she wasn't overly concerned with the happenings in Harmony. After being sent away, Paloma just didn't care what happened to the family she felt didn't care about her.

Assisted Theresa is the drugging and rape of Ethan Winthrop Sr.

Brief Character History

Pilar is the fifty-something matriarch of the Lopez-Fitzgerald family. She was born in Mexico, but moved to Harmony in her twenties as the young wife of Martin Fitzgerald, whom she married when she was eighteen. She immediately got a job working for the wealthy Winthrop family, becoming Ivy's personal maid when Ivy was only a small child. When Ivy wed Julian, Pilar went with her to the Crane household.

Martin disappeared shortly after Pilar gave birth to their youngest daughter, Paloma, leaving her with five children between infant and age ten. Pilar immediately sent Paloma to Mexico to live with and be raised by her sister Maria, leaving grade-school-aged Antonio and Luis in charge of toddlers Theresa and Miguel. At the same time, the young family was also kicked out of their home (they had been living on the Crane grounds). So Pilar had to work two jobs to support her family. This worked for many years, until Antonio ran away from home shortly after high-school, and for many years it was unknown if he was dead or alive.

Although Pilar has always been loyal to Ivy (keeping the secret about Ethan's paternity), her first loyalty is to her family. She knew Theresa was stalking and scheming to break up Ethan and Gwen, but did nothing to stop her daughter. Nor did she take any preventative methods when she learned that Theresa had been snooping and had come across the papers that proved that Ethan was Sam Bennett's son. Even when Theresa lied outright to her employer and her son, Pilar kept quiet.

With the secret about Ethan finally out in the open, Pilar tried hard to keep Ivy from interfering in Sam and Grace's marriage. It soon became clear where her loyalties lay when she learned that Ivy was prepared to tell her son the truth about Theresa. Rather than risk her daughter being exposed for her actions, Pilar attacked the wheelchair bound Ivy, leaving her locked in her room without any means of escape so that Theresa would be able to marry Ethan without interference. Unfortunately, Ivy was able to tell her son the truth.

Pilar lost her job at the mansion a few times, but always came back until Theresa was finally ousted as being an imposter heir to the throne. They were later evicted from their home, and Pilar became very ill, eventually being hospitalized. A mystery cure seemed to be helping her, but after she learned of Antonio's death, she relapsed.

Brief Character History (from the character's point of view)

The elder of the Lopez-Fitzgerald daughters, Theresa has been the apple of not only her mother's but her brothers' eyes as well. After her father disappeared when she was three, she was raised primarily by her older brother Antonio, as her mother worked two jobs to support them. Antonio disappeared when she was thirteen, and Luis took over as her surrogate father. When she was a teenager, Theresa began cutting photographs of Ethan Crane out of magazines and putting them on her walls, convinced that one day Ethan would come to Harmony, fall in love with her, and she would live happily ever after in the Crane mansion. Her belief in this was so strong that she refused every date she was asked out, saving herself for Ethan, whom at that time she had never met. Theresa thought her dreams were finally coming true when Ethan came to town the summer before her senior year. The only drawback was that he brought his long-time girlfriend Gwen Hotchkiss with him, a woman Theresa had never met, but had disliked for years because she was with Ethan. Theresa was nervous around Ethan, and a number of rather smelly accidents ensued. Theresa was convinced that if she could just get Ethan alone she could explain everything, but when she snuck into his room, she ended up overhearing him tell Gwen that people like her were just gold-diggers, and hearing Gwen try to defend her. That didn't dissuade her in her plans to have a future with Ethan...when Ivy offered her a job as her social secretary, she soon accepted, thinking it would be the perfect way to get close to Ethan so that he would realise they belonged together.

When Ethan realised Theresa was the girl who was dropping smelly sauces on him, he planned to have her arrested and charged with stalking, but Whitney explained that Theresa was just nervous around him, and they denied that Theresa had any romantic interest in Ethan. When Ethan assumed that Theresa had a boyfriend she let him believe it, knowing that Gwen was suspicious of her, and that if Ethan and Gwen knew she didn't have a boyfriend, they wouldn't let her spend time with them, particularly Ethan. Theresa was thrilled when Julian asked her to deliver some papers to Ethan up at the Crane cabin, and she told the driver to leave after he dropped her off so she could spend time alone with Ethan. It didn't last long, though, because Gwen soon showed up for the romantic weekend she and Gwen had planned. Gwen was getting more and more suspicious, and demanded that Theresa produce her boyfriend. Theresa planned to meet them at the Seascape, and spent her life's savings on a dress to impress Ethan. Her plan was to trip a waiter and have him drop soup on Gwen, have her go ballistic, and Ethan would realise she [Theresa] was the woman for him, and there would be no need to produce a boyfriend. Unfortunately, Gwen was extremely gracious. Theresa was saved when Whitney had a friend pose as her boyfriend, Chuck. Gwen apologized for her suspicions, and Ethan apologized for attacking Theresa moments earlier and accusing her of lying to get close to him.

Theresa began to despair of Ethan ever realising that they were meant for each other, especially once she found out that Ethan planned to ask Gwen to marry him! He took Theresa with him to help him pick a ring for Gwen, and when the ring was stuck on Theresa's finger, she believed it was fate. The ring was stuck for days, and when Gwen caught a glimpse of it and asked about it, Theresa told her that she and Chuck were engaged to be married. The whole group of them ended up at the lake on Valentine's Day, where Theresa toyed with showing Gwen the ring, wanting to speed up her future with Ethan. Whitney had to stop her from flashing the ring, and before she could do it again, she learned that Charity had fallen through the ice. Charity was rescued, but then Miguel fell in. Theresa was a vital part in her brother's rescue, and vowed to God that she would stop coming between Ethan and Gwen unless Ethan made it clear that he wanted her. That night, when Ethan phoned her to ask if the ring had come off yet so he could give it to his new fiancée Gwen, Theresa lied to him. Even though the ring was off, she said it was still stuck. She went to the mansion the next day because she was convinced that by now Ethan and Gwen would be finished and she and Ethan could start their life together, but when she saw how deeply in love with Gwen he was, and how it was hurting him to think of losing her, she took the ring off her finger and gave it to him. Gwen was ecstatic, but Theresa was heartbroken.

Theresa's pain was so intense she couldn't hide it from those around her. It was only a matter of time before Gwen wanted to know what was going on, and Theresa told her that Chuck had dumped her because of her family's financial status. When Ethan and Gwen asked her to plan their wedding, she put up a small protest, but soon took the job. As she told Whitney, being their wedding planner and pretending to be Gwen's friend would be the perfect way to show Ethan that they were meant to be together. While Gwen was out of town, Theresa and Ethan took a trip to Bermuda to check out a resort for Gwen and Ethan's honeymoon. When she got home and Luis saw all the expensive clothes Ethan had bought for her in Bermuda, he was furious, until he decided they were probably just hand-me-downs from the Cranes' two daughters. Theresa thought that she had finally shown Ethan that they were meant to be together, but he continued his plans to wed Gwen. She finally confessed that she loved him aboard the prom boat, but Ethan wouldn't listen to her. He told her she was just on the rebound after what Chuck did to her. When Gwen asked her later, Theresa lied to Gwen and told her that she had no interest in Ethan at all. But she couldn't stop thinking about Ethan, and when he told her there was no chance for them, she hopped on Miguel's motorcycle and took off. She was driving in the on-coming traffic lane when she realised the brakes were out, and nearly had a head-on collision with a trucker.

Theresa woke up in the hospital to Ethan telling her he loved her, and the two of them sharing their first real kiss. Theresa begins to believe the two of them will share a future together, until Ethan tells her it's not quite that simple...he still loves Gwen. When Rebecca attacks Theresa, Gwen defends her, convinced that her friend would never hurt her like that. This goes on for months, Rebecca attacking Theresa, Gwen defending Theresa, and Theresa and Ethan taking advantage of every stolen moment, until the eve of Gwen and Ethan's wedding. Rebecca told Theresa that Ethan was just using her, and a heart-broken Theresa went back home, planning to leave town. While pulling a suitcase out of the closet, another suitcase fell, this one containing Ivy's letter to Sam about Ethan's paternity! Theresa was shocked to learn that Ethan was a Bennett, and immediately scanned the documents into the laptop she used for her work as Ivy's secretary. She planned to take the information to Ivy so that Ivy would make Ethan break up with Gwen and marry her. She changed her mind, deciding instead to tell Sam Bennett the truth, but her mother stopped her. After promising Pilar that she wouldn't go anywhere, Theresa took advantage of Rebecca's offer to leave Harmony, and headed to the airport.

While on the plane, Theresa talked to a fellow passenger, and decided to hurt Ethan for what he'd put her through. She set up her computer with the letter and planned to send it to the tabloids. Just as she was about to send the information, the stewardess came by, and made Theresa turn off the computer. Theresa continued to wait for takeoff as there was a commotion outside...Ethan had come to tell her that he loved her! After agreeing to Gwen's idea of double-dating, Theresa and Ethan shared a romantic date at the Harmony carnival, before each going home. Earlier that evening, she had planned to tell Ethan the truth about his paternity, convinced Ethan would be hers if he weren't a Crane, but she changed her mind. When she learned Sheridan was dead she rushed to the mansion to comfort him, but was told to leave by Julian. She went home, and the next morning, was trying to send Ivy's letter to Ethan when Pilar stopped her. Theresa's dreams finally came true when Ethan proposed to her at the Church at Christmas Eve. Although Pilar begged her to erase the letter, Theresa refused. She wasn't sure if she still didn't need it. When Pilar told her that Rebecca would never forget Theresa's role in Ethan and Gwen's break-up, Theresa erased the letter from her computer. When her hard drive crashed a few weeks later, she was terrified that Ethan had found the information, but in reality, it was only a love poem she'd written about him.

On the day of their engagement party, the truth about Ethan's paternity was revealed in the tabloids. Theresa handed over all the money she saved as Gwen and Ethan's wedding planner to him, telling him it was an investment in their future. They continued to plan their wedding, and luckily, Luis and Sheridan finally got together, and they had a double wedding all planned. The day of the wedding, the tabloid published the information on which e-mail address the letter had come from...Theresa's! The wedding was in a state of chaos and Theresa ran off, spending the night at Whitney's. Ethan tried to convince Theresa that he still loved her and wanted to marry her, but she wasn't listening. She decided that the only way she could make things right was to get Julian Crane to adopt Ethan. She went down to Bermuda, where Julian was celebrating his divorce from Ivy, and the two of them ended up drunk...and married! She was horrified to realise she had married Ethan's step-father, and vowed to keep it a secret forever. Unfortunately, she soon realised she was pregnant...and after Theresa attacked her with a firepoker to keep the marriage hidden, Ivy told Ethan everything. When Julian suggested an annulment she eagerly signed the papers, and she swore to Ethan that she never slept with Julian, promising that she would never lie to him again. She was planning to tell Ethan the baby was his, but she soon realised that she was not far enough along for that to work. So she chose a new route. She decided to have an abortion, to keep Ethan from ever finding out what she had broken her promise.

On New Year's Eve, the tabloid reporter announced that Theresa was pregnant, and that she had been seen at an abortion clinic. Theresa soon told everyone that she didn't have the abortion. Ethan automatically assumed the baby was his, and it broke Theresa's heart when she had to tell him that the baby belonged to Julian. When he realised she lied to him again, Ethan walked out on her. That same evening, Julian Crane was shot and presumed dead. Despondent, Theresa went down to the docks. As she stood on the pier, she realised that she had lost Ethan, and decided to commit suicide. She jumped into the water, and died...her soul going straight to Hell, where Julian (Zombie Charity in disguise) convinced her to sell her soul to the devil and make a pact with the darkside. After agreeing, Theresa was returned to life. Theresa soon began fulfilling her end of the bargain, although it was never revealed what her end was. She proclaimed herself Mrs. Julian Crane and moved into the mansion, trying to kick out Ivy and Rebecca, who both fought her in court for the title of Mrs. Julian Crane. Theresa won because the judge had been bought off by Alistair. When Theresa saw a video of Ethan killing Julian, she immediately confessed to the crime. She was convinced that they would never send a Crane to jail, and thought that if Ethan knew she was willing to take the blame for his crime, he would break things off with Gwen and come back to her. Her plan backfired when she was sentenced to death. Ethan helped her escape from the hospital, but when she began dreaming of their future together, he was quick to tell her that he had no plans to be with her. She had broken her word to him too many times, and he was back with Gwen.

They managed to make it to the cabin, but Theresa was in trouble...she had been hiding the fact that she was in labor because she needed time to convince Ethan that they belonged together. She was furious when Gwen showed up. Theresa watched as Gwen and Ethan shared a passionate reunion, and their connection drove her to the brink of madness. She stabbed Gwen in the back with a pair of scissors, and then went after Ethan. Both tried to stop her; they knew that she was suffering from a medical condition that was affecting her perception. They managed to get her on the couch, where she gave birth. Theresa was astonished the first time she held her son; for months she had resented the baby, blaming both the child and Julian for coming between her and Ethan, but the moment she held her son she fell in love with him, and immediately regretted that she even considered getting rid of him. Ethan and Gwen got her to the hospital, but it didn't save her. Only days after the birth of her son (whom she named Ethan Martin), Theresa was executed. And only days after she was executed, she came back from the dead. She needed to pretend to be dead so that Julian would feel safe coming back to Harmony. Although Julian wanted to get to know his son, she refused, and denied him any access because she blamed him for her break-up with Ethan. She immediately moved herself into the bedroom next to Ethan and Gwen, making plans to use the connecting door to re-establish her relationship with Ethan. Unfortunately, Ethan had moved on with Gwen. Despite Theresa's best attempts to convince Ethan that they were meant to be together, Ethan stayed with Gwen. Theresa believed she finally had the love she dreamed of when Ethan intimated that he was going to ask her to marry him, but then he asked Gwen to marry him.

Theresa wasn't ready to give up on love. She made Alistair give her a position as vice-president of Crane Industries, and used that power to make sure that no one would hire Ethan. If Ethan had to work for Crane, he was bound to realise that their love was too strong to be denied. Theresa also knew that Gwen didn't want Ethan working for Crane Industries. She arranged to have the papers validating his employment delivered to the Church on their wedding day, and watched in anticipation as Gwen slapped Ethan across the face and walked out on him. When Gwen accused her of having something to do with it, she denied any involvement. Her heart breaks as she watches Gwen and Ethan get married. Before Theresa can focus too much on the pain of losing Ethan again, Fox Crane shows up in her bed! The two soon become fast friends. When Ivy tries to say Theresa pushed her down the stairs at the Bennett house, Theresa vows revenge on the Cranes for everything they have done to her, and launches a plan to destroy the Cranes by giving away all their money. Just as she is doing that, Julian drops a bombshell on her...they're not legally married! Theresa swore he was lying; she had eventually remembered all the details of that night, and she knew they were married. But it turns out that it was all a joke perpetrated by Julian's friend Bruce. Theresa was shocked when she realised that he was right; Julian had never actually consented to marry her, and it was only she who had said 'I do'. Julian immediately kicked Theresa out of the mansion, and turned the tables on her when he produced a writ of custody for little Ethan. Theresa was able to take the baby to Sheridan's cottage, since it, like the house, was owned by Alistair, and the writ stated only that Little Ethan could not leave the estate.

Theresa was terrified when Julian made it clear that he was going to fight for custody of his son, but she still refused to bend...Julian was not allowed anywhere near little Ethan. Julian finally caved and allowed Theresa to leave the grounds with her son, and she moved back in with her mother. Theresa was both thrilled and upset to learn that Gwen was having problems with her pregnancy. Theresa felt in her soul that the moment that baby was born Ethan would realise he made a huge mistake by marrying Gwen and leave Gwen and the baby to be with her, and Theresa felt that if the baby did die, Ethan would leave Gwen right away, but at the same time, she knew how horrible it would be to wish a baby dead so you could be with it's father. She left Harmony for Los Angeles, promising her mother that she would do nothing to interfere with Gwen and Ethan's relationship, because Theresa knew that any stress on Gwen could cause the baby to die prematurely, and she did not want to be responsible for the death of Ethan's first child. Unfortunately, when Theresa learned that Ethan and Gwen had left Harmony to see a specialist in Los Angeles (and to get away from Theresa, whom they did not realise had left town), Theresa decided that fate wanted her to be with Ethan, and formed a pact with Fox to scheme and manipulate to break up not only Ethan and Gwen, but also to break up the relationship of the girl Fox loves (Theresa does not realise it is her best friend Whitney she is scheming against).

Although Theresa and Ethan shared a few kisses, Ethan made it clear that he was committed to his wife. Theresa refused to listen, convinced that the only reason Ethan was pretending that he was going to stay with Gwen was because of the stress that Gwen was under with her pregnancy. When Gwen realised Theresa was in Los Angeles and actively seeking Ethan, she sought her out. The two had an argument at the apartment complex, and Theresa made it clear to Gwen that she was going to be with Ethan, and that Ethan would be leaving her and the baby. Theresa pushed Gwen away when Gwen launched herself at her, and Gwen fell, striking her head. She was rushed to the hospital, where despite the requests of Ethan and the hospital staff, Theresa refused to leave. Even Pilar, via the phone from Harmony, told Theresa that her obsession with Ethan had caused all this pain and reminded Theresa of her promise, but Theresa refused.

When the doctor told Ethan he could only save Gwen or the baby, Theresa encouraged Ethan to let Gwen die, telling him that he had to save the baby, because that's what she would do, that's what the Church says to do. (When Theresa herself was pregnant, she planned for months to get an abortion because she couldn't risk Ethan learning of her deceptions.) Ethan told her she was a heartless, selfish monster. Theresa then went into the hospital room, and told Gwen that she would raise her baby with Ethan after Gwen's death. She was hustled out by security. Even after Ethan's daughter died, Theresa insisted on being there, even going into Gwen's room to be with Ethan, despite everyone asking her to leave. When it sunk in that Ethan's daughter was really dead, Theresa began to have new hope...she saw the baby's death as fate's way of bringing her and Ethan back together. Ethan has told her over and over again he wants nothing to do with her, but Theresa maintains hope that he will realise that without a child, there is no reason for him to tie himself to Gwen and he will come back to her.

Upon returning home to Harmony, Theresa was left to face the wrath not only of the Hotchkiss and Crane families, but her own mother. Pilar was disgusted by what happened in L.A., particularly because Theresa had promised her that she would not do anything to endanger Gwen and Ethan's marriage or their child. She received the ultimate shock when Julian and Rebecca announced that they would be exercising Julian's custodial rights and taking Ethan Martin from her. Despite being asked not to by Ethan, Theresa crashed Sarah's funeral, demanding that Ethan help her in her battle against Julian. She was shocked when he refused. This event led to Theresa to claim she hated Ethan, and when Chad observed that he thought Fox loved her, Theresa decided that she would marry Fox, and mused to Whitney that with Fox, she would know her financial future was secure.

Despite being ordered by a judge to stay away from her son after she attempted to kidnap him from the Crane mansion, Theresa couldn't be without her little boy, and continued to violate the court order by seeing him at the mansion. On one of these trips she ran into Rebecca. The two got into an argument, where Theresa told Rebecca that her hold on the Crane fortune was tenuous because of Julian's obvious lack of love for her, but with Fox and her son, she (Theresa) would always be a part of the Crane family. When Rebecca told her that her son would one day be a Crane servant to her own grandchildren, Theresa lashed back by stating that she hoped that Gwen and Ethan would never be able to have any children. When she realised that Gwen and Ethan knew about her heartless words, she was desperate to apologize to Gwen, realising how horrible her words were. Gwen begged Theresa to leave her alone, but Theresa insisted on apologizing. It all went wrong when Theresa told Gwen that God had punished her for marrying Ethan by killing her daughter, and that Gwen had deserved for her baby to die. Tired of asking Theresa to leave her alone, Gwen tried to remove Theresa from the room bodily. When Theresa, not ready to leave, fought with Gwen, she ended up going out the window!

In a court of law, Theresa was shocked when the judge ruled in her favor in regards to the custody of Little Ethan. Unfortunately, when she attacked Gwen and Rebecca outside the courtroom, the judge saw what she did, and he changed his decision, agreeing with children's services recommendation that her parental rights be severed. Theresa was further devastated when a different judge agreed to Ethan and Gwen's petition to adopt Little Ethan, and change his name to Ethan Winthrop Jr. Theresa finally decided that the only way to get Little Ethan back was to arrange to have herself implanted with Ethan and Gwen's fertilized egg. Even though she had not had any of the hormone treatments, Theresa kidnapped Heather (the planned surrogate) and locked her in a closet while she impersonated her at the hospital and was implanted with the eggs. She lost the embryo only a few days later, and when Fox would not sleep with her (she was planning to pass his child with her off as Ethan and Gwen's baby), she stole an experimental date rape drug from Eve Russell and after slipping it to Ethan, slipped on Gwen's nightie, spritzed her with her perfume, and donned a blonde wig, then proceeded to rape Ethan.

Luckily for Theresa her plan worked, and she became pregnant. While continuing to pretend that the child belonged to Ethan and Gwen, she began her attempts at blackmailing them, threatening them that if they did not give her Little Ethan, she would take their child and never let them see it. As time went on, she began to change her mind, deciding that not only would she force Ethan and Gwen to give her Little Ethan, but she would also keep the child that she had told them all along was their child. She told this to Pilar, not realising that Gwen was listening to the whole conversation.

Brief Character History

Simone is the free-spirited younger daughter of T.C. and Eve Russell. All her life she has been held up against her older sister Whitney and found lacking by both her parents. The moment she met Chad Russell, she had a tremendous crush on him, defending him when Whitney would degrade him. Simone spent a lot of time helping Chad find his parents, and it was only a matter of time before she fell in love with him. She wasn't sure if he could ever return her feelings until he swore to her one day that he loved her. Simone was over the moon, but accepted it when Chad said they couldn't date because she was 'too young'. Time went by, but just as Simone was beginning to doubt Chad's feelings, he told her again that he loved her at the Crane estate. Shortly after that, she witness Chad in an embrace with her sister, and the shock of seeing the man she loved (who swore she loved her) kissing her sister sent her running out into the street where she was struck by a car.

Simone ended up in a coma, but soon came out of it. She had completely forgotten what she saw before the accident, and was still happily in love with Chad. When her parents gave them permission to date and Chad officially proclaimed himself as her boyfriend, Simone was over the moon. The only cloud was her sister, Whitney. Simone just couldn't understand why Whitney kept flirting with Chad. After all, Chad was supposed to be HER boyfriend. It was only after Simone discovered the two of them together that the truth came out...Chad had never meant it when he told her he loved her, and was only pretending to be her boyfriend. To add insult to injury, both T.C. and Eve were too busy comforting Whitney to even look at Simone. Simone still hasn't gotten over the pain of being betrayed by her sister and the man who was pretending to be her boyfriend, and was truly devastated when she learned they were engaged.

Since her breakup with Chad, Simone has been on the sidelines, watching Kay try to manipulate Miguel. She also formed a romantic alliance with John Hastings, although it was seldom seen on-screen. She re-emerged after Kay's accident, trying to comfort her friend, even though all Kay could talk about was how much she hated Charity.

Brief Character History

TC's family has lived in Harmony for hundreds of years. His many-times removed grandfather once owned a farm in Harmony, which was taken over by the Cranes. TC was an only child who was well on his way to being a tennis star when a tragic automobile accident ruined that dream, and caused his father to die of a broken heart shortly afterward. Although he has no proof, he blames the Cranes for his family's misfortune.

TC has never really given up on tennis, and to a great extent lives vicariously through his daughter Whitney's tennis career. Although he loves his younger daughter, Simone (whom he calls Sugarbear), it has always been Whitney he was closest to. He delights in his perfect family and his perfect marriage, and has no idea that his wife, Eve, was once a lounge singer as well as Julian Crane's mistress. As far as he knows, the woman he has been married to for over 20 years was a debutante who has no family left.

TC's biggest problem is his quickfire temper. The Russell temper is legendary, and it's not uncommon for his wife and daughters to keep something from him because they know it will anger him. Right now, no one dares tell him that Eve had an affair with Julian, or that Charity is having visions about it, because TC became furious when his protege, Chad Harris, even mentioned the possibility.

Crimes Committed

Joined forces with Theresa Lopez-Fitzgerald to help her deceive and land Ethan Winthrop.

Unknowingly committed adultery with Chad Harris.

Keeping quiet about Theresa's rape of Ethan Winthrop Sr.

Brief Character History

Whitney is the goodie-two-shoes eldest daughter of TC and Eve Russell, a tennis coach / gym teacher and a doctor. Her dream since she was a small child was to play tennis, which is encouraged by her father, who had dreams of a pro tennis career when younger. Her best friend is Theresa Lopez Fitzgerald, and she is fiercely loyal to her. She has gone to bat more than once for Theresa, continually pulling her out of trouble, especially where Ethan Winthrop is concerned. If not for Whitney, Theresa would certainly have been arrested for stalking Ethan. She does her best to emulate her mother, not knowing that Eve isn't exactly the poster child for perfection. Whitney was content to let tennis rule her life, never dating or getting seriously involved, until Frank Lomax came to town. The two engaged in a pretty serious flirtation that could have become something more, but Frank was the detective hired to expose Ethan's stalker. Whitney couldn't turn her friend in, and Frank eventually faded out of the picture. A blind date her mother set her and Theresa up on with two guys from the hospital, Mark and Gary, turned out to be equally disastrous.

Whitney pretty much gave up on dating until Chad Harris showed up in Harmony. There was just something about the angry young man that appealed to her. Unfortunately, the same thing appealed to her younger sister, Simone. Even though Chad told Simone he loved her, he thought it was Whitney. Now that both Eve and T.C. are more approving of Chad, he and Whitney have started spending more time together. But there's a problem...Whitney is still trying to protect her friend Theresa, but Chad has had his blinders removed and is trying to help his friend Ethan -- he thinks that Ethan has a right to know Theresa kept the truth of his paternity from him.

Whitney turned her back on a relationship with Chad after Simone was hit by a car, swearing that as long as Simone was still in love with Chad, she was never going to actively pursue him. Chad gave up on her, and began spending time with a new girl named Kelly. At a party at the Youth Center, Whitney was slipped some drugs by a man hired by Ivy, and she ended up plastering herself all over Chad. T.C. just happened to walk in and find her, topless, all over Chad, and he blew up. Chad has washed his hands of her refusal to even consider dating him and is moving on...but even though she doesn't want him, that doesn't mean it's okay for someone else to have him!

As time went on, Whitney's heart thawed where Chad was concerned. She still wasn't ready to come out into the open as having a relationship with him, but after Theresa was executed for killing Julian, she couldn't deny her feelings any longer, and she and Chad became lovers that night. Unfortunately Simone doesn't know the truth about the two of them, but after Theresa 'came back' from the dead, Whitney has vowed not to lie anymore...she's seen what it did to Theresa's life, and she doesn't want her own ending up the same way.

Whitney didn't quite keep her promise. Simone only learned the truth when she found the two of them together. Discovering her sister with the man who swore he loved her destroyed the previously close relationship the two sisters had, and when Whitney announced her engagement to Chad, it destroyed her relationship with her father. Only Eve is still by her side. When Whitney learned that Chad had a bride he never bothered to mention to her, and had actually been married for years both before and after leaving L.A., she told him it was over...just as Chad's furious bride aimed a gun at Whitney and shot her!

Whitney was able to recover from her injuries, but her relationship with Chad suffered a serious blow because of all his years of lying to her. She broke things off and returned to Harmony. After a few weeks, Chad returned home, claiming he put an end to things with Latoya once and for all, but Whitney wasn't sure if she was ready to trust him again.

Brief Character History

Not much is known about Liz. She had a difficult and possibly abusive childhood, and grew up without a cent to her name. She runs a small hotel resort on the island of St. Lisa's (not too far away from Bermuda, and the Bermuda triangle). At one time she and Brian were heavily involved, but in the years since, they have settled into a friendship. Unbeknownst to Brian, though, Liz still has feelings for him. Feelings so strong, in fact, that she wants the younger man back in her life...and in her bed.

Once Liz realised that Brian loved Diana, she backed away from him, allowing him to follow his heart. When he became ill, though, she came to Harmony, learning that Brian O'Leary had a whole life there as Antonio Lopez-Fitzgerald. Her feelings for him are as strong as ever, but now there's someone who concerns her more...Dr. Eve Russell! It turns out that Eve and Liz were sisters, and Liz has never forgiven Eve for walking out of her life nearly thirty years earlier after their parents' disowned Eve. She is determined to destroy not only Eve's life, but the lives of her husband and daughters as well.

Supernatural Incidences

Charity's first experience with the supernatural came at the Harmony carnival when she went into the fortune telling tent, which then proceeded to spin in front of her. Upon returning to Castleton, Charity was rinsing her face when Tabitha reached into the fire and tried to drag her through to Tabitha's living room, but luckily, Charity managed to escape. Charity's powers lay fairly dormant for some time, until Kay begin plotting against her, and bringing the bird statue near her. This prompted psychic visions for Charity, in which she saw Julian and Eve making love. Eve had her committed to the psychiatric ward, and Kay continued to bring the bird statue near her which kept Charity's visions coming, and kept her locked up. After being released, Charity's powers were quiet for a long time, although she did occasionally get twinges that evil was after her (particularly when Kay was around) and saw Kay once in her true demon form, she spent more time at the mercy of evil powers than using her own. She spent almost a year frozen in a block of ice, but once the ice melted, she used her powers to defeat the Zombie Charity that had taken her place. Charity has never come into her full powers, as they will only take effect when she makes love to her soulmate, Miguel Lopez-Fitzgerald. Charity's powers have primarily manifested themselves as premonitions, which seldom (if ever) come true.

Brief Character History

Until recently, Charity was the ever-sheltered only child of single mother Faith Standish. A visit to a carnival last summer changed all of that. Charity met Miguel Lopez Fitzgerald, and through him, learned of a woman named Grace Bennett who could be her aunt. It turned out Grace WAS her aunt, but before she could introduce Grace to her mother Faith in person, there was a horrible fire at their small home in Castleton (set by Tabitha), and Faith is believed to have perished. Charity ended up in Harmony, and for many months, couldn't remember who she was, or the strong ties that bound her to Miguel.

Now that Charity has her memory back, she has a new problem. Lately, she's been having horrible visions. They come in two varieties: deathly predictions (usually of Miguel, usually run through with a ski pole), and psychic smut (of Eve and Julian, as a result of a close-by bird statue). Lately, she has begun having a new series of visions -- visions where Miguel professes his love to her cousin Kay, who she is beginning to realise has been in love with Miguel since long before she entered the picture. A recent near-miss tragedy during the avalanche was the first time she and Miguel professed their love out loud to each other.

The newest problem in Charity's sphere is her cousin, Kay. Thanks to Kay's scheme at the prom, Charity became halved -- one half good, one half bad. Evil Charity almost succeeded in killing Kay and Miguel, but luckily the two escaped...barely. Evil Charity finally met her doom in the mineshaft, but unluckily for Charity, she didn't have a lot of time to enjoy her freedom, and her love with Miguel. Thanks to Kay selling her soul to Hecuba, Charity spent some time burning in the fires of Hell. They finally managed to save her, only now Kay has a new hurdle to overcome...Charity and Miguel have announced their plans to marry!

Charity and Miguel are unofficially engaged, with plans to make it permanent once they both reach 18. After a trip to Warlock Island, Charity has retained the uncanny ability to talk to trees, and often gets advice from the tree in the Bennett's front yard. Unfortunately, the tree wasn't able to give her very good advice. On a skating trip with the group, Kay managed to get Charity into a cave, where she used the book of spells to trap Charity in a block of ice and create her alter-ego, Zombie Charity.

While the real Charity was 'on ice', Zombie Charity began carrying out Kay's plots to get Miguel for herself by blowing hot and cold when Miguel was around, and cozying up to other guys. Everything seemed to be going according to plan, Zombie Charity even had enough free time to harass Tabitha and Timmy, and turn herself into Julian long enough to lure Theresa back into a life of manipulation. But lately Zombie Charity isn't playing by the rules. She's gotten things back on track with Miguel, and loved the 18th birthday bash that the Bennetts threw for her. In addition to scheming to seduce Miguel to kill him, she is plotting to kill Timmy, too, before he can use the Demon's Horn to free the real Charity.

Luckily for Charity, the Demon's Horn was able to free her from the ice block, but she was gravely injured. While in the hospital, her heart failed, and originally they all thought she was dead, until they found a heart donor...Tabitha's 'grand-nephew', Timmy. Now Charity is alive with Timmy's heart beating inside her.

Miguel and Charity made all the preparations for the wedding, and were even in the Church when suddenly Kay fainted. She awoke to have Eve telling everyone that she was pregnant, and Charity was shocked to soon learn that it was with Miguel's baby! Her love for Miguel is still pure and true, but she is concerned that if she comes between Miguel and Kay, the baby Kay conceived will lose out on it's father.

When Death came to take Miguel and Kay's child, Charity made the ultimate sacrifice. In order to save the child of the man she loves, Charity promised to give him up. But during the weeks that Maria was in the hospital, Charity and Miguel found their way back to each other. Unfortunately, Kay wouldn't give up her attempts at manipulating Miguel, and Tabitha and Endora were also in on the act. They cast a spell that landed Charity in Reese's bed, which is where Miguel found her. Miguel and Charity broke up, and Charity got involved with Reese, who was finished with Jessica. She could never stop thinking about her love for Miguel though. After numerous attempts to reconcile, Charity, after talking to her 'mother', returned to Castleton, where their home had burned to the ground in 1999. Miguel showed up, and when Charity was nearly killed by a big black dog, Miguel speared the dog. But when they went to look, it turned out it was Kay who had been speared. As a result of the spearing, Kay was left unable to have more children. Despite Miguel's pleas for her to stay in town, Charity could not longer face life in Harmony and, at Tabitha's urging, left on the bus.

Supernatural Incidences

Although Faith always believed in the power of evil, it is unknown what powers she had as she did not live long enough for us to find out. About all that is known of Faith's powers is that she was able to sense evil before it arrived. Her powers have allowed her to appear twice since her death to try to help people.

Brief Character History

Faith was the twin sister of Harmony's Grace Standish. It is unknown how Faith spent her life up until the age of forty. She and Grace were very close until the Boston fire that Faith believed killed Grace all those years ago. Unlike her sister, who knew nothing of evil thanks to her amnesia, Faith was obsessed with the idea that evil killed Grace, and was after her and her daughter.

Because of that, she moved Charity and herself around constantly, the only memory of her sister a photograph the two had taken when they were twenty.

Because part of Faith had always believed that her sister was alive, which is why she would occasionally haunt the on-line chatrooms, looking to learn something about her sister. It was in an on-line chatroom that Faith was able to make a connection with Sam Bennett, who was looking for information about his amnesiac wife. Unfortunately, they were never able to connect. Even once Faith's niece Kay realised that her 'friend' Charity was really her cousin, Faith and Grace still couldn't meet, because Kay made sure that Grace never knew about her connection to Faith or Charity, in an effort to keep Miguel to herself.

Grace and Faith were finally able to connect, and were able to have one on-line conversation with each other, face to face for the first time in over twenty years. They barely had time to say hello when Tabitha, who had finally found Faith, managed to set the house on fire. Although Grace and Sam rushed out to Castleton and the fire department worked hard to save the house, they were unable to save Faith. She burned to death in the fire, and Grace never got to see her sister face to face. Faith's ghost has appeared to the family in times of trouble, though, usually to give advice to her clueless twin.

Supernatural Incidences

Grace had no idea that she had powers until after a few short conversations with her long-lost twin sister Faith and the Angel Girl. Unfortunately, Grace never really had an opportunity to use those powers. While she did curse Ivy after the loss of her unborn son, her powers did not have a chance to be used until the real Charity was freed from a block of ice, Charity and Grace banded together to destroy the Zombie. Grace occasionally has 'feelings', but her powers are relatively mild compared to her niece Charity's.

Brief Character History

Grace has no memories prior to Sam rescuing her from a Boston fire in the late 1970s. He got her name from a piece of paper he found in her pocket. They married soon after, and he brought her home to Harmony, to live in the house where he grew up. Over the years they had three children, and Grace helped Sam raise his much younger brother Hank. Grace and Sam looked for her family, but after the births of their children, Grace decided that she didn't need to know her past. That worked until after their oldest, Noah, left home for university. Grace started wondering about her family, so Sam started using the Internet to search for them. He found a woman, 'Seeker', in a chat room, and managed to realise that she was a member of Grace's family. Grace was thrilled to learn that her twin sister could be so close...closer than she thought. She didn't realise that her own children had met her niece, Charity, and that her daughter, Kay, was keeping the two apart in the hopes that Charity and Faith would leave, and she would get Miguel.

Grace and Faith managed to connect once, via their computers, but then the unthinkable happened...Faith was the victim in a fire set by an ancient enemy of the Standish family (the Bennetts next door neighbor, Tabitha). Her twin sister was dead, but Grace had something to hold on to...her niece, Charity. Once Charity was out of the hospital, Grace and Sam moved her into the Bennett home. Grace soon realised that, like her, Charity has something special about her. While Grace received visits from a little angel girl, Charity had premonitions. She never realised that her premonitions were warning her about a new friend of hers, Ivy Winthrop Crane. For nearly two years, Grace believed that Ivy was a good friend of hers, because Ivy made her believe that. At no time did Grace ever suspect that Ivy was merely pretending to be her friend to break up her marriage. She began having nightmares about a woman who wanted to take Sam away from her, and even had Sam's son. Her worst nightmares ever came true the night of Ethan and Theresa's engagement party...not only did she learn that Sam had committed adultery with Ivy (before he met Grace), but Ethan Winthrop was Sam's son! In a dead faint, she fell down the stairs of the Crane mansion, and woke up in the hospital fighting for her life, and that of her unborn son [the child the doctors had told her it was impossible to conceive]. Her mental condition was fragile at best, and seeing Sam and Ivy in a compromising condition was the last straw...Grace lost the baby, and blamed Sam for it.

It took Grace hours to convince Sam to take her home, and when they got there, they found out that Charity had been seized by the denizens of Hell. Grace blamed Sam for that as well, because she knew something was wrong and he wouldn't take her home. Her anger didn't last long though...after hearing Sam once again blast Ivy for her selfishness and tell Ivy how much he loved his wife, Grace, she forgave him...until she found out he knew she was there the whole time.

Sam and Grace finally settled things between them, until a man named David Hastings came to town, claiming to be Grace's long-lost husband! A few months after David shows up in her life, another surprise is in store...he has a twenty-something son named John. Grace is thrilled to find a connection to her past, and she and John are fast forming a relationship...while she fights what she believes is the resurgence of her feelings for her former husband. Grace doesn't realise that David was hired by Ivy to pretend to be her husband, and that John is not her son.

Things only got worse when Kay got pregnant. Grace soon realised that her daughter was affiliated with the dark side, and tried desperately to save her. This just drove a bigger wedge between Grace and her daughter. Thanks to Kay's interference, Grace was finally forced to choose between Sam and David. Although she loved Sam, she couldn't ignore her vows to David, and chose to stay with David.

Brief Character History (from the character's point of view)

Born and raised in Harmony, Beth is the younger of Edna Wallace's two children. She has never known who her father is, she has only known a series of her mother's boyfriends throughout the years, some of which sexually molested the young girl. She was still fairly young when her mother met Mr. Wallace, owner of the local Book Café, and they all lived together as a family. Beth always believed that her mother had married him, and still refers to him as her step-father. Beth was friends with Luis Lopez-Fitzgerald since they were small children, and at one time, was a frequent guest at the Wallace home, helping Antonio and Luis with the younger ones. She and Luis eventually fell in love, and the two dated all through high-school. Shortly after graduation, Antonio left town, and Luis took over his role as head of the family. He and Beth were engaged to be married at the time, but Luis broke things off. He loved Beth too much to hurt her, and he was terrified that he would one day leave her the way his father left his mother.

A few years passed, during which Beth, who now managed the Book Café her step-father had sold to pay for her mother's medical bills, barely saw Luis, who was now a cop. Then he began coming into the Book Café on a regular basis, shortly after their high-school chum Hank returned to town. Luis and Beth picked up their relationship where they left off, but a few months later, Beth began to wonder about Luis and Sheridan Crane. Although she discussed with Hank what they could do to keep their significant others, she didn't have the heart to hurt Luis, and when she realised Luis was in love with Sheridan, she backed off, and wished them well. Luis was the only man she had ever loved, and would ever love, and she wanted him to be happy. When Sheridan was believed dead in the boat explosion, Beth was there for Luis, and slowly, the two fell back in love, and were engaged to be married. Then Sheridan came home.

Something in Beth seemed to snap after all those years. Probably extensive exposure to her mother, who recently appeared on the scene. Beth has to constantly defend herself to her mother, who blames her for something that happened when Beth was a teenager. Only hours after they were engaged to be married, Sheridan showed up in Harmony, and Luis came to Beth to tell her it was over...the woman he loved was back. While Beth outwardly wished Luis and Sheridan well, inside she was seething, and vowed revenge on Sheridan for taking away the man she loved. Knowing that Sheridan was pretending to still love Antonio, who was dying of a mystery disease, Beth played on the situation, all of them making Antonio think that Beth and Luis were together rather than Sheridan and Antonio. It went to the point where they ended up at the altar, all four of them. Antonio and Sheridan got married, but Mrs. Wallace had a heart attack just as Beth and Luis were ready to say their 'I do's.

By that point, Beth was beyond all redemption. She continued plotting to get Luis back, and slowly came to the realization that if Sheridan was dead, she could have Luis for herself. Beth was just as shocked as everyone else to learn that Sheridan was pregnant, and that the child could belong to either Antonio or Luis! Beth didn't let that stop her though. She paired up with Charlie (a woman who caught her stealing drugs from the hospital and originally was going to turn her in...until she met 'mother'), and the two hatched a plan to kidnap Sheridan. Knowing Charlie has a crush on her, Beth told Charlie that they would kidnap Sheridan's baby to raise together, but the reality is that she plans to raise that child with Luis.

After holding Sheridan captive for weeks in her basement, Beth presented Luis with a beautiful baby boy, while a frantic Sheridan had no idea what gender her child was. Beth and Charlie planned to do away with Sheridan, but unfortunately, Luis dived into the freezing water to save his brother's bride, and they got her back to the hospital. Beth is terrified that Luis will realise that little baby Martin is really Sheridan's son. When Gwen announced her plans to expose Beth, she couldn't risk it, and tried to kill Gwen. Her first attempt failed, but she will do anything to keep Martin.

Brief Character History

Edna Wallace is the kind of mother that no child should have. Throughout her younger years, she was the 'friendliest' woman in town, sleeping with so many men, she has no idea who the father of her children are. She used to bring home her boyfriends, not caring that her daughter, Beth, became their victim. When Beth was still relatively young, she brought home Mr. Wallace (he owned the Book Café), and for many years, Beth thought of him as her father, and only learned long after his death that she and his mother weren't married after all.

Edna is very free with words for her daughter, abusing her both verbally and emotionally. Her primary goal in life is to rob Beth of any happiness she can possibly receive, in part because she blames Beth for something that happened when Beth was just a teenager. Edna worked hard to expose Beth and Charlie's plans to kidnap Sheridan and raise her baby as their own while trying to get along with her orangutan caregiver Precious, but although she threatens to expose Beth, especially now that Sheridan has been returned home and Beth still has the baby, she has never done so.

Although she will not return him to his mother, Edna has arranged for some encounters between Sheridan and Martin, and has encouraged Sheridan spending time with the child she believes to be her son.

Brief Character History

Ethan Winthrop is the oldest child of Ivy Winthrop Crane and Sam Bennette. Ivy was with the two men within a 24 hour period, and Ethan was born exactly nine months later...a beautiful ten pound baby. Sam is his biological father, even though Julian is his legal father, and is the man listed on his birth certificate. He met Gwen Hotchkiss at age 12, and the two immediately hit it off. They even proceeded to go to the same Connecticut boarding school, Choate Rosemary Hall Boarding School. While they had many other opportunities, they were always faithful to each other, not only through high-school but also once Ethan went off to attend Harvard law (while Gwen attended another university). In July of 1999, Ethan had recently turned 24 and graduated from law school, and came home to Harmony to work for Gwen's parents, then spent some time in private practice, but soon went to work for Crane industries.

Ethan has always been in love with Gwen, but he was reluctant to finalize their relationship, until his aunt Sheridan pushed him into it. Knowing that he was proposing for other reasons, Gwen turned him down -- if she couldn't marry for love, she wouldn't marry him. That issue was pushed to the back-burner when Ethan began being the victim of mysterious 'accidents', and became determined to learn who was stalking him. With the help of private detective Frank Lomax, he eventually realised that Theresa Lopez-Fitzgerald was his stalker, but decided to give her a second chance, and soon began to believe that Theresa was his friend, not realising that she was really trying to be close to him in an effort to break him and Gwen up and get him for herself. He has never saw her as more than a friend, but she assigned meaning to even the most trivial events. Her dreams almost backfired, though, when all her talk of 'true love' helped Ethan to see how much he loved Gwen, and prompted him to propose to her. The engagement almost didn't happen when Theresa refused to give him the engagement ring (that she claimed was stuck on her finger), but luckily, Gwen and Ethan loved each other enough to work it out.

Plans for the wedding were going ahead as scheduled when Gwen was called out of town on business. Believing she had their best interests at heart, Gwen and Ethan approached Theresa with the idea that she handle the wedding arrangements while Gwen was out of town. Gwen would, of course, still be involved every step of the way through fax and e-mail, and would have final say, but they wanted someone there to do the wedding. Gwen was only out of town for a few days, but Theresa capitalized on that time, and spent as much time with Ethan as possible. While his heart still belongs to Gwen, Ethan has felt stirrings of feeling for Theresa, not realising that Theresa has this whold thing planned out. Knowing that he was feeling conflicted, Ethan begged Gwen to return home. Although initially she was unable to, she quickly wrapped up her business, returning to Harmony the next day.

The real trouble came after Gwen returned home, when Theresa told Ethan she loved him on the prom boat. Ethan had no idea -- and immediately wrote it off as a crush. Theresa had told him about her boyfriend Chuck, who broke up with her, and he assumed she was looking for a rebound love. Theresa couldn't possibly love him -- she was a child, with a teenage crush, and he was a man. Theresa tried to explain that she DID love Ethan, and it wasn't a rebound, but then she would have had to confess that she really was stalking Ethan and had lied all about 'Chuck'. Gwen was immediately suspicious when she caught the two together in a compromising position, but Theresa smoothly lied her way out of that, and is now Gwen's maid of honor!

Since that night on the prom boat, Theresa has made every opportunity to be alone with Ethan. It doesn't help matters that in addition to Theresa manipulating him, Ethan's father Julian is encouraging him to sow his wild oats with Theresa, and Ethan's friend Chad is manipulating things to push Theresa and Ethan towards each other. Ethan continually tells Theresa that it's Gwen he loves and he only thinks of her as a friend, and has tried to tell her that he knows and loves Gwen, and a few months with her can't compare to years of love with Gwen, but Theresa refuses to believe him. Ethan has no idea the lies she has told to land her Crane, or the extent of her obsession. He has finally gotten through to her that he's not in love with her, but unfortunately, an accident (caused partly through her own negligence, partly because of sabotage) has landed her in the hospital, and is leaving Ethan conflicted about his feelings. Is it his long-time love and soul mate Gwen that he wants, or is it Theresa, who he honestly believes to be an innocent young girl rebounding from a broken heart?

A few weeks before he was to marry Gwen, Theresa nearly died in a motorcycle accident. Ethan suddenly realised that he returned her feelings of love, and told her so in the hospital. Less than 12 hours before he was to marry Gwen, in the middle of their engagement party, Ethan informed her that while he was still in love with her, he was also in love with Theresa, and called off the wedding. He did not, however, call off the engagement. On Christmas Eve, while still engaged to Gwen, he took Gwen to Church, then surprised everyone by proposing to Theresa. The next day, Gwen broke off their engagement.

Theresa and Ethan's relationship has hit a snag now though. At his engagement party, Ethan was rocked with the news that his father is not Julian Crane, as he'd always thought, but Sam Bennett. Rather than being the heir to the Crane fortune, he is the illegitimate son of a man he hates. Lost and confused, Ethan goes to Theresa and tells her he wants to call off the wedding...but they decide to go through with it. Ethan immediately turns his back on the Crane family, and walks away from them, dropping the 'Crane' name.

Ethan made a promise to Ivy that if Theresa continued to lie to him, that he would break off his future with her. When Theresa lied to him about sleeping with Julian (which he discovered when her pregnancy was announced to the whole world), he had enough, and broke things off...not because of her pregnancy, because because it was the latest in a string of lies. He forgave her for most of them, but he couldn't forgive her for this. Theresa continues to insist that he still loves her and wants her back, but he reminds her that her lies ruined their future.

Ethan continued to decline Theresa's advances, feeling that he just couldn't trust her any more. Despite all of that, though, he is still drawn to Theresa, despite also being drawn back to his first love, Gwen. Ethan and Gwen get closer, and become lovers again, but when Ethan learns that Theresa has confessed to killing Julian Crane, he and Gwen try to get her off, both believing that she is innocent. What Ethan doesn't realise is that Theresa thinks she's covering for him! He begs the Crane attorney, Davis, to help her, not realising that Davis has been instructed to make sure Theresa is found guilty. When the judge declares Theresa's fate, the two go on the run together. When Theresa goes into labor at the cabin, she refuses to tell Ethan because she needs more time to convince him that he still loves her. Ethan would have remained clueless if Gwen had not shown up on the scene, and finally forced Ethan to realise that Theresa was actually in labor. With Ethan and Gwen's help, Theresa gave birth to a baby boy, just as the police burst in! They took Theresa back to the city, where they prepared to execute her. Ethan went to the governor's office, hoping that he could convince the governor to delay the execution in order for them to file an appeal, but Alistair had gotten there first.

Ethan watched the investigation with his lady love, Gwen Hotchkiss. She was there to comfort him throughout the entire event, but after Theresa's death, needed to know if Ethan wanted her, or the ghost of Theresa. Ethan assured her that it was her he wanted, and the two retired for an evening of love-making. Both were shocked when Theresa turned up alive, all part of Alistair's plot. Theresa immediately made a play for Ethan, despite her marriage and his commitment to Gwen, and at first he bought into it, until he realised that Theresa was using the baby to manipulate him.

Ethan was unaware of Theresa's continued manipulations, and was soon torn between her and Gwen. He was about to break up with Gwen and ask Theresa to marry him when they found out Gwen was pregnant. Although she planned to move to New York, after much thought and a talk with his father, Ethan realised his heart and his future lay with the mother of his child. He asked Gwen to marry him and began looking for a new job. He didn't realise that Theresa had ruined all his possible job opportunities in an effort to break up him and Gwen, so he ended up stuck working at Crane Industries until he is able to find someone who isn't afraid of the Crane name. Ethan and Gwen finally decided to go to Los Angeles to see a specialist and to take a break from Theresa. Unfortunately, she was already out there. Ethan was initially able to resist her, until Theresa and Fox (unbeknownst to him and Whitney, their intended targets) launched a full-out attack to get the objects of their affections. Ethan couldn't forget the innocent young girl he still believed Theresa to be, and was drawn to her again, even though he made it clear that he was not leaving his wife or child, and told Theresa it was over. Unfortunately, Gwen had seen the two kissing on television, and came to the apartment to talk to Ethan.

After a confrontation with Theresa, Gwen was rushed to the hospital, where Ethan was told he had to choose between her and the baby. Theresa encouraged him to let Gwen die and to save the baby, as it was the Christian thing to do. Unable to forget how willing Theresa was to end her own baby's life, Ethan called her a heartless monster, and after much deliberation, decided to save Gwen...but the decision was taken out of his hands when the baby died. Although Theresa continued to try to manipulate her way close to him, Ethan told her he wanted nothing to do with her again, and promised Gwen that he would never let Theresa's manipulations cause him to go running to her side again.

Brief Character History

Ethan Martin Crane was conceived during a drunken moment of passions between Julian and Theresa, on what they thought was their wedding night. Theresa's original plan was to pass the baby off as Ethan Winthrop's, but as soon as she realised she wasn't far enough along and Ethan would realise the truth, she planned to get an abortion. She was quite a few months along when she went to the clinic, and for whatever reason, Theresa left the clinic pregnant. Although she had resented him throughout her pregnancy, as soon as he was born, Theresa fell in love with her son, but denied him his father. Little Ethan is currently at the center of a custody battle between his parents. Julian just wants to get to know his son, but Theresa is refusing to let him anywhere near the baby, so Julian is fighting for full custody. Currently Julian has legal custody of his son, but he is allowing him to live with Theresa. After Rebecca called social services, they did an investigation into Theresa's background and were horrified by what they found. Little Ethan was taken away from his mother based on their investigation, and given to Julian. After Theresa tried to kidnap Little Ethan at Julian and Rebecca's wedding, Judge Reilly saw the traumatic effect that Theresa's actions often had on her child, and ruled that she was not even to have visitation. When it came time to go to court, the judge ruled to separate Theresa and her son for one year, during which time he hoped she would be able to get her life together. When he saw her lose it and attack Gwen and Rebecca in the hall outside the courtroom, he severed her parental rights altogether. A few days later, with Julian's approval, the courts approved Ethan and Gwen's adoption of Little Ethan, and he was officially known from then on as Ethan Winthrop Jr.

Brief Character History

Ivy Winthrop Crane was the daughter of the Maine state governor. In her final year of high-school, she met a young lifeguard named Sam Bennett at the beach. Even though they were from completely different worlds, the two fell in love. They had a brief romantic relationship, even holding their own special private prom, before Sam went off to work on one of her father's fishing boats. While he was gone, she didn't hear from him, but she did meet another young man her age, Julian Crane. The two went out a lot, culminating with Julian asking her to marry him. She wrote Sam a letter issuing an ultimatum -- either he get in touch with her, or she would marry Julian. When she didn't hear back, she married Julian. That day she overheard a conversation between Julian and Alistair, in which she found out that her father and Alistair had 'arranged' the marriage (the Cranes wanted respectability, the Winthrops wanted money -- presumably they were broke), and that Julian had gone along with it, even though he was in love with someone else. She ran to Sam, and the two made love for their first and only time ever. Later, after being pressured by her father, Ivy returned to Julian, and consummated their marriage that night. When she found out she was pregnant, she assumed the baby was Sam's. She has ignored everything in her life, including her other three children with Julian, for Ethan.

Ivy was content to be Julian's wife until she and Sam came back into each others lives in July of 1999. Since then, she has been chasing Sam relentlessly. When she learned that Dr. Eve Russell had been Julian's love before Julian and Eve's marriages, she used that information to blackmail Eve not only into keeping quiet about her obsession with Sam, but into helping her land Sam, and covering up Ethan's conception date so Sam wouldn't think it was possible that Ethan was his son.

Ivy's life came crashing down around her ears when her history as an adulterer was revealed at Ethan's engagement party. Not only that, but the whole world knows that she made her husband a cuckold and then passed off another man's child on him for over twenty-five years. Julian wants her out of his life...and so does Ethan! Julian has finally gotten the divorce he wanted, but Ethan has forgiven his mother...somewhat. Only problem is, a recent lightening storm has crippled Ivy, and a psychotic Theresa tried to finish the job by attacking her with a fire poker! In the hospital fighting for her life, Ivy can't wait to tell her son that his blushing bride is already married...to Julian Crane!

Even though Ivy managed to make sure Ethan found out that Theresa had wedded and bedded Julian, it wasn't enough to make Ethan drop her. He continued with plans for the upcoming wedding. Ivy continued to try to find a way to get her son to see the truth about Theresa, but he remained oblivious about her schemes. It wasn't until Ivy managed to get hard core proof of Theresa's pregnancy with Julian's baby that Ethan finally saw the light about his fiancée. He had promised Ivy that if Theresa continued to lie to him, he would break off their relationship. Ethan felt that he had given Theresa ample opportunity to be honest with him, but she kept lying to him, and he broke things off with her, and moved out of the Lopez-Fitzgerald home.

Ivy was overjoyed that her son was finally free of the woman who had lied and manipulated her way into his life. Unfortunately, Theresa has decided to punish Ivy for her role in Ethan learning the truth about her lies, and has decided to lay siege to the Crane fortune. Ivy is fighting for her position in Alistair's house right now, and has already informed the others of her plans to involve Alistair in stopping Theresa from claiming the Crane fortune. Theresa has managed to get herself moved into the mansion and declared the true Mrs. Crane, but as the mother of the Crane heir, Ivy still has some leeway in the home and the Crane dynasty. Theresa confessing to Julian's murder is just the latest of Ivy's schemes to get Theresa out of her son's life.

Ivy is still trying to save her son from Theresa, but her main goal right now is to break up Sam and Grace's marriage, and to destroy any chance the soulmates have at happiness. Luckily for her, she discovered that David, the man she hired to pretend to be Grace's husband, has fallen in love with Grace...and will do anything to keep her in his life. This got her over the fact that Theresa moved herself into the Crane mansion in an attempt to manipulate Ethan. She thought her life was over when Theresa kicked her out into a blizzard after hearing Rebecca and Ivy make disparaging remarks about her family, but was thrilled when Sam took her home with him

Brief Character History

Julian Crane is the son of Crane patriarch Alistair Crane, and acting head of Crane Industries while his father does business out of town. The Cranes have owned Harmony for over 300 years, and Julian has no qualms informing the people of that fact when it looks like they're getting in his way. Julian wed Ivy many years ago in what was, basically, an arranged union between their parents. Before his marriage to Ivy, he'd had a relationship with Eve Russell, which had resulted in the birth of a son (who was stillborn). Eve is unaware that Julian knows anything about their son. Eve and Julian broke up when she met TC, before Julian and Ivy married.

Julian has made no secret of his discontent in his marriage to Ivy, but they continue to keep up the pretense because both fear his father. His affairs over the years have been numerous since Ivy kicked him out of their bed (prior to that we were told Julian was faithful), culminating most recently in Ivy threatening to kill him when she found him in bed with Suzanne the maid. He has virtually no interest in his children's lives, except to give Ethan advice on how to deal with Theresa Lopez-Fitzgerald: Sleep with her now, before he gets married, then forget about her.

Since being disinherited, Julian's main goal is to discover what secret Ivy has been keeping from him, and to bed Gwen's married mother, Rebecca Hotchkiss. He is still his father's lapdog, but is less willing to go along with Alistair's schemes now that Alistair can't hold disinheritance over his head. Lately he has been showing more rebellion, because his love for his family is stronger than his desire to please his father. It broke his heart to learn that his beloved son, Ethan, was really another man's son. He tried to lessen the blow learning his true paternity would cause Ethan, but with only hours until the story would hit the newstands, he didn't have a lot of time.

While in Bermuda finalizing his divorce from Ivy, Julian was approached by Theresa in her attempts to get him to reinstate Ethan as the Crane heir. Seeing a possibility of sleeping with the luscious young woman, Julian played along, bringing Theresa with him. He plied her with champagne, never dreaming that the two of them would become unbelievably drunk in the process...and wake up the next morning, married...to Theresa! Julian is desperate to annul his marriage to Theresa, but Theresa isn't willing to do so just yet...she wants a few things from him first. So Alistair has ordered him to solve the problem...kill all three of the women in his life! Unfortunately, Julian never managed to carry that plan out...someone shot him, and he fell into a vat of boiling tuna. The real question is, though, is he dead or alive? While no body was found, there are a number of suspects in the case of Who Killed Julian Crane? And lately, his most recent wife, Theresa, is trying to claim the Crane fortune as her own. While Theresa is being executed for his murder, Julian is following the yellow brick road with Timmy, who is on a quest for the Demon's Horn.

The two eventually found the Demon's Horn and returned to Harmony after it was announced that Theresa had been executed (Julian wasn't about to give Theresa a second chance to try to kill him), but unfortunately, Timmy wasn't able to survive his final battle with Zombie Charity. While talking about their love for the young man that had changed their lives, Julian and Tabitha themselves became lovers. Julian and Theresa live in the same house, but Theresa has tried to forbid Julian any contact with their son. Rebecca spurred Julian into fighting for custody after Theresa's involvement in little Sarah's death, but Julian heartily regrets it.

Reese is a geek with a big heart...and a big crush on Kay Bennett. He was thrilled when he found out she liked him. Only problem? It was a scam set up by her sister, Jessica. A series of misunderstandings has resulted in Kay and Reese actually becoming boyfriend and girlfriend! Their relationship has never really gone to the romantic stage...although Reese has tried on numerous occasions (most notably the hot tub at the ski lodge, where he wouldn't take no for an answer until the two were rudely interrupted), Kay rebuffed him at every opportunity. Reese most frequently turned up when trouble arose so that he could offer his intellectual expertise. Yet despite all his brains, he had no idea that Jessica Bennett is head over heels for him...until he found himself head over heels for her as well! Unfortunately, Kay's plan to break up Charity and Miguel ended up zinging Jessica and Reese instead, and the two of them broke-up. Reese is unlikely to be seen again.

Brief Character History

Sheridan is the much younger sister of Julian Crane, born when he was a teenager. She has always felt much closer to his son, Ethan, who is only a couple of years younger than she is. Her life was forever changed when she was an adolescent, first with the death of her mother, and then with her memory of finding a body shortly after. Her family has always allowed her to believe she killed someone that night for reasons that have not yet been explained. She was sent off to spend years in a Paris mental institute (Ethan was shocked to learn of this, as he was always told she was in boarding school), and later in her life, became friends with the late Lady Diana, the former Princess of Wales.

Sheridan returned to Harmony after being betrayed by her fiance Jean Luc, who wanted her only for her money (like so many others before him). She hasn't done much with her life up until now, always buying her way out of her problems. She couldn't do that when she crashed into Luis Lopez Fitzgerald's police car, and was sentenced to do 100 hours of community service at the Harmony Youthe Center. During that time, she flirted with and dated Hank Bennett, but it was Luis she fell in love with. It began in earnest when she followed him to New Mexico, hoping to prove Martin Fitzgerald was still alive, and was a certainty when Luis saved her instead of the man he thought was his father. (Turned out to be an imposter hired by the Crane family.)

Overhearing (yet another) imposter hired by the Crane family to "be" Luis claim he was using her, she decided, once her 100 hours was up (it took her nine months), to return to Paris. Unfortunately, in Paris, Roger and Pierre (the two most inept hitmen in history) are waiting for her. Luis followed her to Paris, and has saved her life more than once, but she still refused to return to Harmony with him. In desperation, he kidnapped her so he could get her safely back to the States. She had him charged with kidnapping, which almost resulted in the loss of his badge.

She continued to date Hank Bennett once back in Harmony, while still lusting for Luis. When it looked like the drug cartel followed her back to Harmony, the FBI assigned Luis to guard her (didn't really give him a choice). The two got closer and closer, even though Sheridan's dating Warren was a slight problem for them. Luis scared Warren off, leaving Sheridan alternately loving and hating Luis. Finally, in desperation, Sheridan went to Eve to hypnotize her about the night she found 'the body'. Her hypnotism seems to have revealed that she killed Martin Fitzgerald, but Eve convinced her that she was merely guilty about her mother dying at the same time, and associated the two events.

With this out of the way, Luis and Sheridan were finally free to be together...only the drug cartel, his hatred of her family, her family's hatred of his family, and her dating his best friend could have kept them apart. Despite all of that, the two finally admitted their love for each other, but before they could make love, Sheridan was shot and killed, leaving Luis heart-broken. But wait! It turns out she's not dead after all, and it was a plot by the FBI to make the drug cartel THINK she was dead. The only problem is that everyone who knows about the plan is being held hostage by the drug cartel, and she's in the casket!

Luckily Sheridan was saved from certain doom, and her and Luis finally got together. Unfortunately, their repeated attempts to become lovers have all been thwarted, the most recent by the revelation that Ethan is not a Crane. They finally managed to make it to the bedroom...and now they're headed to the altar! Luis has just become the latest in Sheridan's long line of fiancés. The wedding never went off when the tabloid sprung the news that Theresa sent the documents (although Theresa didn't do it, Sheridan believed it), and she and Luis went to Bermuda. After her body was positively identified after a boat explosion engineered by Alistair and Julian, Sheridan was believed dead.

After Sheridan's death, a young woman named Diana washed ashore in Bermuda, and was taken in by a fisherman named Brian O'Leary, his good friend Liz Sanbourne, and their friend Doc. They nursed her back to health, and slowly Brian and Diana fell in love. Unfortunately, Diana developed a gambling habit (one night's worth!) and lost thousands of dollars. Her markers were all bought by Nick Bozman, a former associate of Brian's. Desperate to save Diana from being in Nick's debt, Brian decided to go back to racing, which he had previously stopped doing when it became dangerous for his health. By the end of it all, Brian paid Nick off, he and Diana got engaged, and they decided to return to Harmony.

Once back in Harmony, it took Sheridan only one look at Luis' face to remember the love that they shared, and the two made love. Unfortunately, before she could break the truth to her new fiancé about her old fiancé, Brian (who was now known as Antonio) ended up in the hospital with a life-threatening illness. Rather than put Antonio's life at risk by telling him the truth, Sheridan elected to marry Antonio. She and Luis were prepared to tell Antonio the truth after a miracle drug saved him, but just then, Sheridan learned she was pregnant...and either Luis or Antonio could be the father!

Throughout her pregnancy, Sheridan and Luis continued to keep the truth from Antonio, allowing him to believe that his wife was carrying his child when the baby could belong to either one. Sheridan was kidnapped a few weeks before she was due, and kept in the basement of the Wallace home. Her baby boy was taken from her immediately after it was born, before Sheridan could ever learn it's gender, and after she escaped from drowning, she was led to believe her child was dead. Now she's developed a strong attachment to Beth and Luis' baby Martin, not realising it's her son also!

Brief Character History

Nicholas Foxworth Crane is the only son of Ivy and Julian Crane. In his early twenties, Fox was sent away at a young age by his mother Ivy, who couldn't bear to have any reminders around of the mistake she made by choosing love over money. Like his sisters (most likely one is older and one is younger), Fox has never forgiven his mother for the way she treated the three children that belonged to Julian, and had a certain amount of resentment for Ethan as well, because he was the one that Ivy liked. Fox is the obvious Crane heir, since he has been the only option since Alistair disinherited Ethan in 2000. An extremely spoiled and headstrong young man, Fox made trouble in both North American and European schools. Finally out of university, Fox comes home, presumably to assume his rightful place as the Crane heir.

When Fox first arrived back in Harmony, he was amused to see all the changes that had taken place since he left. No one was particularly happy to see him, especially after it was learned he came home because he gambled all his money away. He soon made friends with his father's attractive young wife, Theresa, in part to anger his family, who despised Theresa for all she had put them through. His relationship with Theresa was purely platonic, and he soon began to see that there was more to Theresa than meets the eye, especially when he saw her scheming first hand.

Upon meeting Whitney Russell, he fell hard for her, and taking a page out of Theresa's book, is cozying up to Whitney and Chad by pretending to be their friend and giving them relationship advice. Rather than be shocked when Theresa stated that she would do anything necessary to take Ethan away from his wife and child, Fox agreed to help her break up their marriage. In return, she would help him take the woman he wants from the man she loves. He had hated Ethan from childhood because Ivy always made Ethan her number one priority. Despite his plans, though, he was a little leery of joining up with Theresa, especially once he began to wonder if she wanted Ethan and Gwen's child to die.

Fox regretted his actions when his and Theresa's scheme played an instrumental role in the death of Gwen's daughter Sarah, and was shocked when Theresa told him that she honestly believed that the baby died because God was supporting what they were doing to get the ones that they loved. When Ethan turned his back on Theresa, they all returned to Harmony as a group. Fox continued to lust after Whitney and to scheme to break up her and Chad, but when his father had a surprising heart to heart talk with him, Fox realized that if he truly loved Whitney he would not continue to try to hurt her, and when Theresa erroneously assumed that she was the woman he was deeply in love with, he went along with it, willing to settle for a relationship with Theresa because he could not have his true love.

Although Fox did not love Theresa, he cared about her a great deal as a friend. The two became lovers one night, and when Theresa lost her son in court after attacking Gwen and Rebecca, Fox was there for her. Even when she began plotting to become pregnant in an attempt to blackmail Ethan and Gwen into forcing the courts to return her son to her, Fox remained by her side, although he was uncomfortable with her plans. He assisted her in being implanted with Gwen and Ethan's child, but was confused when she attempted to seduce him a few days later, reminding her that it could impact the pregnancy. He was surprised when she told him she had betrayed him, but relieved as well. When Theresa overheard him admitting his love for Whitney and told her, he admitted it -- glad that his secret was out in the open at last.

Crimes Committed

Committed adultery with Ivy Winthrop Crane on her wedding night.

Brief Character History

Sam Bennett is the elder son of former Harmony police chief and his wife. He grew up in Harmony, where his best friend was T.C. Russell. In his teens, he met a young woman named Ivy Crane. The two began a relationship, and Sam took a summer job on her father's boats to save money for a life together. Unfortunately, her father didn't think he would be a good match for his daughter, and kept the two from keeping in contact. Believing he didn't care, Ivy married Julian Crane just weeks after he left town. Upon learning that Julian was forced to marry her, Ivy ran to Sam, and they became lovers on her wedding night. She promised to run away with him, but when her father gave her an ultimatum (money or Sam), she chose the money, and left for her honeymoon with Julian.

After Ivy betrayed him, Sam left Harmony for a number of years. He went to Boston, where, a few years later, he saved a young woman from a fire. They knew nothing about her. A piece of paper with the word 'Grace' on it decided her name. After a whirlwind courtship, the two wed. They soon returned home to Harmony, to move into the house next door to Tabitha Lenox, a woman who had lived next door to Sam's family since before he was born. (It is unknown what happened to his parents but presumably Hank, who was born only a few years before Sam married Grace, lived with them.) Three children soon followed -- a son, Noah, followed a few years later by a daughter, Kay, and a few years later by another daughter, Jessica. Then Grace was told she could have no more children.

Grace and Sam had over twenty very happy years together, until one day, Sam ran into his first love, Ivy. Although he was no longer in love with her and had moved on with Grace, Ivy refused to accept that. She began arranging accidental meetings, forcing her attentions on him. It got to where one of her schemes almost resulted in Grace's death. On the night of her son, Ethan's, engagement party, Sam learned a shocking secret that Ivy had kept from him since their night together more than twenty-five years earlier -- the Crane heir Ethan was actually his son! He barely had time to digest this information when he learned that his wife, Grace, who they had just discovered was pregnant again, fell down the stairs, putting her miracle pregnancy in jeopardy. Grace lost her baby, and when she learned that Charity was sucked into Hell, she blamed both things on Sam.

Luckily for Sam, his wife forgave him when he was able to prove to her that his past with Ivy was in the past. The two were planning for their new house, and to enjoy the rest of their lives together, when David Hastings appeared on the scene, soon followed by a son John, and some convenient proof that he was Grace's husband, and John her son. Sam had been suspicious from day one, but had no idea that Ivy was so obsessed with him that she had hired this man to ruin not only his life, but the lives of his wife and children as well. Seeing Grace's distress, Sam has determined that she truly wants David, and after he caught them in bed together, he decided it was well and truly over.

Grace and Sam were able to make it through that event, because Grace explained that David was ill. Sam thought they were getting everything back on track, not realising that his daughter Kay and ex-girlfriend Ivy were working to destroy his family. Grace was forced to choose between her first love, David, and her second love, Sam, and Grace finally chose to honor the vows she made before God to be with David. Neither Grace nor Sam realise that it's all just been a scam of Ivy's to break up their marriage, and that their daughter Kay is an eager participant, because she's bent on destroying Grace, whom she's always hated.

Brief Character History

Noah is the oldest of the three Bennett children. When the show began, it was learned that he was entering his second year at some unknown university. Over the years it has also been learned that he is the same age as Julian and Ivy's legitimate son. Of the three children, Noah is closest to his father, who until last summer, he used to have an annual camping trip with. His hobbies include baseball and skiing. He has been home to Harmony only once in the last three years; the Christmas of 1999. He was never seen on-screen though, his home-coming was only learned about in passing reference from his mother. It's unknown what his reaction to Ethan as his new half-brother is, all that is known about their connection to each other is that they both share 'the Bennett eyes'.

Supernatural Incidences

Although Kay did not inherit the Standish powers, she sold her soul to the witch Hecuba to arrange the death of her cousin, Charity, and hope that she could get Miguel for herself. When Charity did not burn in the fires of Hell, Kay needed to find a new method, and after finding Tabitha's book of spells, used a spell to encase Charity in a block of ice, and create a Zombie Charity to do her bidding. Unfortunately the Zombie proved to have a mind of her own, which included killing Miguel. Kay managed to save Miguel from the Zombie, and luckily for Kay, when the real Charity defeated the Zombie (an event that cost poor Timmy his life), her evil acts were not exposed. One evil act, though, had lasting consequences. Kay used the essence of the real Charity to take her form, knowing that Miguel would never consent to sleep with anyone but his beloved Charity. She spent the night with Miguel in her cousin's bed, and recently gave birth to his child.

Brief Character History

Kay is the middle Bennett child. She refuses to get along with her sister, teasing her constantly. She developed a crush on friend Miguel, and uses her best friend, Simone, and his best friend, Reese, to try to get closer to him. His growing relationship with Charity is a threat to her, so Kay has been doing everything to get rid of Charity, knowing she is her cousin. When Simone suggested that Charity's long-lost aunt might be her mother's sister, Kay did everything she could to make sure that the two never met -- her crush on Miguel proved more important to her than her mother's happiness.

Although she pretended to support Charity and Miguel, in reality, she was trying to keep them apart. After the incident in the mineshaft, Kay became more determined than ever to get Miguel...and sold her soul to Hecuba in order to get him. She helped Hecuba arrange for the demons of Hell to get their hands on Charity, but there's one problem...now the demons have their hands on Kay, too!

Kay was lucky enough to escape from the bowels of Hell and get her soul back, but her flirtation with goodness didn't last too long before she found the Book of Spells, and cast a spell to entomb Charity in a block of ice, and created a Zombie Charity to aid her in getting Miguel. Things seemed to be going okay, until Zombie Charity developed a mind of her own, and now has her own agenda!

While her plan has always been to get Miguel at all costs, even Kay isn't heartless enough to want her family dead to get what she wants. Zombie Charity has been threatening not only Miguel, but also Grace lately, and Kay is doing her best to convince Zombie Charity not to kill any of her loved ones.

Zombie Charity was defeated, but not before Kay committed the ultimate betrayal of friendship. She used Charity's essence to make Miguel think she was her cousin, then seduced him. Miguel was horrified and disgusted upon learning that he had actually slept with Kay, because he had no idea it was her. They found Charity a short time later, and while Miguel is thrilled to have his love back, Kay is still wishing her cousin dead. Not only that, but she is fighting with Grace as well, blaming her mother for all of her problems.

Kay watched the man she was obsessed with made plans to marry her cousin, and sought to destroy them at all times by threatening to tell Charity, even though Eve said it would be dangerous for her to know the truth. She also continued her verbal attacks on her mother, who would not help Kay in her schemes to destroy Miguel and Charity's lives. On Charity and Miguel's wedding day, Kay fainted at the Church, and everyone was shocked to learn Kay was pregnant! Kay was thrilled that her condition resulted in the wedding being postponed, and despite Miguel informing everyone that he never would have gone near her, Kay is telling everyone that Miguel was meant to be hers. She is basing everything on something Miguel said once in the mine shaft, which is that if Charity never came to town, he may have asked her out. Recently she vowed to move out of the house after her mother gave her a choice...either follow the rules that Grace and Sam had, or leave. So to punish her mother for not helping her with her schemes, Kay left in the middle of a blizzard, putting both herself and the unborn child at risk.

Kay finally ended up at Tabitha's and blackmailed Tabitha into letting her live with her. Once she learned that Ivy and David were lying to Grace and Sam, rather than tell her parents the truth, she immediately began using it to her advantage, holding it over her mother's head whenever her mother wouldn't help her in her schemes to get Miguel. Kay also decided she wanted to learn to be a real witch like Tabitha, so that she could use the same evil she used to get Miguel into bed to break him and Charity up permanently. Unfortunately, nothing is working for Kay. Miguel is now wary of her after getting a glimpse of her dark side, and he is more in love with Charity than ever, even though Kay has just given birth to his daughter.

The baby's life was in jeopardy numerous times, but it didn't stop Kay from continuing her scheming. She even used her daughter's health crises in an attempt to manipulate Miguel away from Charity. Although she is no longer willing to kill Charity to win Miguel (because she doesn't want to end up in prison), she is still desperate to break up Miguel and Charity so that she can force him to be with her. She refuses to listen to Tabitha and Simone when they tell her that if Miguel is only with her by force, then it's not love. When her niece Sarah died Kay didn't care about the baby or her half-brother, only how she could use it to get to Miguel.

Kay continued to pursue Miguel, thrilled when they seemed to break up after Miguel caught Charity with Reese. Once she realised that Miguel was still dreaming about Charity and had no interest in her, she began plotting again full-force with Tabitha. Tabitha put a spell on Kay that turned her into a dog, and in that form, Kay went after Charity in Castleton, nearly killing her. When Miguel, trying to save Charity, speared the dog, it turned back into Kay, leading Miguel to believe he had accidentally speared Kay and not the dog. In the aftermath, Kay learned that due to the intensive medical damage, she could never have more children. When Miguel still refused to give up his love for Charity, Kay railed at him, blaming him for everything that had ever gone wrong in her life. It didn't make a difference; Miguel still left Harmony.

Supernatural Incidences

Neither Jessica nor her sister Kay inherited the Standish powers, but Jessica believes in both her mother and cousin's visions and powers. Even though Jessica has no powers, though, she has an uncanny ability to see through evil.

Brief Character History

Jessica is the youngest child of Grace and Sam Bennett. She has a close relationship with her mother, and an antagonistic relationship with her sister Kay.

Mary Elizabeth Winstead, 1999 - 2000

Jessica was a quiet, perfect daughter. She was very close to her mother, working part-time in her mother's craft shop, even though she was only fourteen when the show started. While she loved her sister Kay, the two had an adversarial relationship, mostly because she knew that Kay was always scheming. When push came to shove, though, she was there for Kay, refusing to tell their parents that Kay knew Faith was Grace's sister for weeks before the rest of them found out the truth, and that Kay's schemes to get Miguel are the real reason that Faith and Grace never met. In part because she sees their love for each other, and in part to foil her scheming sibling, Jessica has always been a strong supporter of Charity and Miguel.

Jade Harlow, 2000 - 2003

Jessica's first major act on her own was to switch the voting box at the prom, which Kay had rigged to make sure Miguel was crowned king and she was crowned queen. She was in the background for a long period of time, but has been involved more and more in Kay's plans to get to Miguel by her own secret crush on Miguel. Unfortunately for Jessica, Reese can only see one woman...her older sister Kay. As the youngest character on the show, Jessica is the only one still in high-school. Jessica's faith in her family was shaken by the recent appearance of David and John, but she is determined to support her mother, and help her new brother John acclimate to life with siblings. Although she suspects David is up to no good, she has no idea that John isn't her brother.

Right now Jessica is stuck in the middle of the war between her sister, Kay, their parents, Miguel, and Charity. Jessica was the one who found Kay in Miguel's bed, and for just one moment, saw Charity in the bed instead of Kay. She knows that Miguel believed that it was Charity he was with, and has seen enough of her sister's hatred and evil over the years to know that Kay forced herself on Miguel. But she doesn't have much of a foothold right now, as everyone recently learned that Jessica was secretly involved with Kay's boyfriend Reese for the past few months. When Kay used magic on some popcorn in the hopes of breaking up Charity and Miguel, the plan backfired, and instead, it broke up Jessica and Reese. It wasn't long before Jessica realised her sister was behind her break-up.

Danica Stewart, 2003 - present

After graduating from high-school, Jessica got a job as a 'mark' cosmetics girl to help pay her way. Although currently attending college, much of her time is spent worrying about her family.

Since Grace chose David Hastings, Jessica has turned her back on her mother, in part because she is vulnerable to her sister Kay's manipulations.

Brief Character History

Chad was born in Harmony, but soon adopted by the Harris family who moved him out to Los Angeles. He lived with them until he was eight, completely unaware that he was even adopted. He ran away when he was eight, and when he returned a few days later, his family was gone, and he ended up in foster care. The closest thing he had to a father figure was Henry, the social worker who was originally assigned to his case. As he grew up, he fell in with a bad crowd, including gangleader Puff Dog, and fell in love with and married a young woman named Latoya. After creating a hit song that an unscrupulous record producer (Howard) took credit for, Chad attacked the man, and had to leave Los Angeles in a hurry. Henry had given him a shoebox that Chad had been found with all those years ago, which led Chad to believe that his family was in Harmony. He decided to leave Los Angeles and head across the country. When he asked Latoya to walk away from everything and take a chance with him, she refused to leave her family and friends, and Chad walked away from her.

Chad met an old man named Orville, who seemed to have information on his past. It was Orville who led Chad to Harmony Hospital to search for his birth certificate, at which point he surmised that he had been adopted (because the name on his birth certificate was not Chad Harris). Chad's hot lead fizzled and died when it turned out Orville had nothing to tell him. Later, Chad encountered a lounge singer named Crystal Harris, who thought he might be a child that a friend had asked to christen with her father's name (Chad Harris), but before Crystal was able to tell him anything about his past, she was gunned down with a bullet meant for Sheridan.

Chad's closest friends in Harmony include Simone and Whitney Russell, Ethan Winthrop, and Theresa Lopez Fitzgerald. His relationship with the Russell girls is complicated. He is interested in Whitney, but knows Simone is interested in him, and to a large extent leads her on. He has been trying to get something started with Whitney for a long time, but his unwillingness to be honest with her, and her own intuition that says he's only in for a good time, have kept her from giving him the time of day. It doesn't help that their mother, Eve Russell, strongly disapproves of him. She looks upon him as a reminder of her own bad past (which she has kept safely hidden), and doesn't want her daughter's involved with a high-school drop-out from the streets. Chad and Ethan became friends when Chad began working on the music for Ethan and Gwen's wedding, but lately Chad has been abusing that friendship by manipulating Ethan to be with Theresa, no matter how much Ethan says he loves Gwen. He sees Theresa as a kindred spirit -- a girl who isn't afraid to love, or fight for that love. He has no idea the lies Theresa has told to further her cause -- he is very much against the type of manipulations she's used, and has expressed that opinion repeatedly.

Chad's life has gotten a lot more complicated since he saved Whitney's life in a construction accident shortly before the prom. Saving her life again during the prom disaster only re-opened the wound, and because he refused to go to the hospital or the free clinic (he didn't want charity), he ended up staying at the Russell house after collapsing on the docks. He was finally going to tell Whitney that he was interested in her, but made the mistake of telling Simone that he loved her (thinking she was Whitney). He was going to correct the mistake, but Kay told him that Simone had an eating disorder to keep him from breaking her heart. Now he might have blown every chance with Whitney -- he manipulated a situation that resulted in Ethan telling Theresa once and for all that he was not in love with her, and Theresa was in a near-fatal motorcycle (sabotaged by Timmy) crash because she was so emotional she wasn't paying attention to the road.

Chad and Whitney have finally managed to get together, and become a couple, but there's a road block in their way. He has told Simone he loves her (first in the Russell home, secondly at the Crane mansion), and continues to allow her to hope for a future with him. With his silence, he is leading her on...and breaking her heart. He is still trying to get something going with Whitney, which horribly backfired when T.C. found him in bed with a topless (drugged) Whitney! Right now, Chad has become the latest in a long line of people to sacrifice his beliefs to lie for Theresa and keep everyone from finding out the truth about her scheming. But Chad has a problem of his own in Simone...he has continued to keep his silence about his feelings for Whitney, and plays the boyfriend for Simone. But he gets his heart's desire when Whitney finally admits her true feelings for him.

Chad and Whitney finally had a chance to express their love for each other the night Theresa was executed. They made love for the first time on the floor of the recording studio, and again after that. They still had not made any decision on what to tell Simone, until they received the news that Theresa had come back from the dead. After having a heartfelt talk with Ethan about lies and secrets, and admonishing Theresa for her continued scheming, both Chad and Whitney decided they could not live a life of lies, and wanted to tell the truth...until T.C. gave Chad permission to date Simone! So Chad and Simone became an official couple, and Chad has been sleeping with Whitney. Rather than take responsibility for his own actions and tell Simone that he made a mistake when he told her he loved her and then officially became her boyfriend, he is forcing Whitney to either tell Simone that she loves him, or he will never see her again.

Chad recently publicly declared that he was dating Simone, even though he was sleeping with Whitney. He continues to break Simone's heart by dating her and sleeping with her sister, but thanks to Simone, it's soon all out in the open when first Simone discovers Chad and Whitney, then T.C. and Eve learn that the man who is portraying himself as their younger daughter's boyfriend is really sleeping with their older daughter! T.C. and Eve were understandably furious, but Eve soon got over her anger. T.C. could not be consoled though...not only had Chad horribly mistreated his younger daughter, but he blamed Chad for what he viewed as an end to Whitney's tennis career. When he asked Whitney to go with him to L.A. she accepted, and was disowned by her father and sister.

Things went from bad to worse once they got to L.A. Although Chad had insisted for years that he had never been seriously involved before Whitney and had never been married, he was lying. His wife Latoya had waited for him for four long years, believing that he would come home to her. He also had to deal with the temptation of a beautiful young singer named Syd Valentine, but luckily, he never fell for her trap. It all came to a head when Latoya and her gangster cousin Puff Dog confronted Chad and Whitney at the hospital. Latoya demanded to know how he could live with her for all those years then walk out without a second thought. Whitney was devastated to learn that Chad had lied to her all along. Shortly thereafter, she was shot, and Chad went to confront Puff Dog. He was furious to learn that Fox had saved all their lives by giving Puff Dog Syd's contract (he doesn't realise that Fox has motives of his own). When everyone else returned to Harmony, Chad stayed in L.A. to tie up loose ends (such as his marriage). When he returned to Harmony, he was shocked to find his former fiancée in the arms of his supposed-friend Fox.

Attempted to kidnap Grace.
Pretending to be Grace's former husband.

Brief Character History

David Hastings is a mystery. When first scene, he was overseas flipping through an American tabloid when he came across a picture of Grace Bennett, whom he seemed to immediately recognize. He quickly came to Harmony, where he began to follow Grace around, and make cryptic phone calls to people, tell them that he had finally found her. When he did finally see Grace, she fainted, and he took her up to his bedroom at the bed and breakfast, where they were found by Sam, who knocked David out, and had him arrested. He refused to say anything at all, but finally blurted out that Grace was his wife! Realising Grace was amnesiac, he told her that they had married in Hartford, and travelled around the coast, until one day she had left him to go to Boston in search of her sister, Faith. He said he received no contact from her in the months she was there, and thought she was dead until he saw her picture in the paper twenty-three years later. He came to Harmony with the hopes of getting her back, but was prepared to walk away when he saw how much in love she and Sam were, and how happy she was with him...until she asked him to stay, which is exactly what he had planned for. He spies on Grace and Sam as often as possible, and his plan is to take Grace away from Harmony and everyone there...his plans for their future in no way include Grace and Sam's three children.

It wasn't long before viewers learned that David wasn't really Grace's long-lost husband at all, but someone hired by Ivy to pretend to be Grace's husband in her latest scheme to break up Grace and Sam. Why he is doing it is unclear, but what we have discovered is that there is some secret in David's past that is so horrible that he will do anything to protect it. Ivy went one step further when she brought David's college-aged son John to town, telling him that Grace was his mother. David was furious, but what Ivy has on him is enough to keep him in line. He hates what he is doing, and has genuinely begin to fall for Grace, but he doesn't want to risk people finding out what he did all those years ago. It's breaking his heart that he is hurting his son, but at least now he has a partner in crime...both he and Eve are being blackmailed by Ivy.

David has been trying to get out from under Ivy's thumb for quote some time as he has truly fallen in love with Grace. He desperately wants a future with Grace, but unlike Ivy, he realises that what the two of them are doing is wrong, and they will both be truly hated if they're discovered. He was even willing to sign the annulment papers, until a scheming Kay talked her mother out of it. David pushed Grace to take a trip with him to visit all the places they once loved, but when he saw the immense pain she was in when Sam told her it was over, he told her to go back to her husband...he just couldn't continue to cause her this pain. Unfortunately, Ivy will not let him go, and recently, Grace left Sam to be with him and John, honoring what she believes to have been her marriage vows.

Brief Character History

Dalton James, 1999 - 2001: Hank Bennett is the much younger brother of police chief Sam Bennett (young enough to be his son). He has always looked up to Sam, and their relationship is closer to a father/son relationship than a brother/brother relationship. He went through high-school best friends with Luis Lopez-Fitzgerald. While Luis had a steady relationship with childhood sweetheart Beth Wallace, Hank was content to play the field. After graduation, he left Harmony to see the world.

Hank's adventures throughout the world are unknown. His family only knows that he would occasionally venture home, just long enough to drop off some exotic gift to his nephew and nieces. Even Luis doesn't know anything about those years. All that is known is that he got into some trouble with the law, and lost his heart to a woman that he just couldn't hold onto.

Hank returned to town shortly after Sheridan Crane, and ran into her on the road one day. The two started a flirtation, and as things progressed, made plans for a date. Unfortunately, Sheridan was in the middle of a love/hate relationship with his best friend. They hid their attraction from him, and Hank and Sheridan started dating. The two were together for over a year, leading many to assume that it was a boyfriend/girlfriend kind of relationship. Even Hank believed the hype, falling in love with Sheridan, never knowing that it was his friend Luis that she was interested in. Their relationship hit a major snag when the French drug cartel hired to kill Sheridan found out the dirt on Hank's past, and decided that he would kill Sheridan for them. They blackmailed him with what they knew. When that didn't work, they told Hank that if he didn't kill Sheridan, they would kill his family. Once the cartel proved to him how easy it would be to kill his nieces, Hank agreed. But he couldn't kill the woman he loved, so he went to the FBI, and they cooked up a plan to make the drug cartel THINK she was dead.

The plan almost bombed when Sheridan almost did die after being buried alive, but luckily, they got to her just in time. When everything came out, Sam told Hank that he was no longer his brother, but Sam changed his mind, and the two made up. Hank was last seen having hot cocoa with Luis, Sheridan, and Sam.

Ryan McPartlin, 2001 - present: Hank came back in to town after spending some time helping the FBI, just in time to find that his childhood home had been sucked into the bowels of Hell. Not only that, but Ethan Crane was really his nephew, Ethan Winthrop, and Luis and Sheridan were getting hot and heavy, even though she had never officially broken up with him. Hank basically hung around the edges for awhile, observing the scenes and occasionally exchanging words with Gwen. He didn't really get a role again until Sheridan was believed dead in the boat explosion. After watching his friend flounder about helplessly for months, Hank decided to try to help. He knew how much Beth had always loved Luis, and still did, and encouraged Luis to find solace in his high-school sweetheart. He also made time to give Theresa advice on love, which she promptly ignored. When Hank heard about a contest at the Lobster Shack, he got himself a date (Maddie), then encouraged Luis and Beth to double date, while regaling them with a story about a lobster biting him. When Beth approached him with what she found on-line (Captain Franklin Liva being the past life of Luis' brother), he suggested silence. Hank has been there for Luis since Antonio and Sheridan returned from the dead (literally), and even when they married. Unfortunately, Hank has basically been neither seen nor heard for months.

3. Episode Synopsis: 1-50

It's a beautiful day in Harmony as brothers Luis and Miguel Lopez-Fitzgerald drive through town. After dropping Miguel off at the docks, Luis, a cop, finds a couple, who, in the throes of passion, have set an illegal fire on the beach. He is angered to learn that it is Ethan Crane, a member of the powerful Crane family, and his long-time girlfriend, Gwen Hotchkiss. Luis has hated the Crane family since his father disappeared years ago to work at Crane Industries. Luis also resents the fact that his mother, Pilar, has been their maid for years. Luis and Miguel's teenage sister, Theresa, fantasizes about the future she believes she will have with Ethan. She has never actually met Ethan, but she has dreamed about him for as long as she can remember. Theresa tells her best friend Whitney Russell that one day she will marry Ethan. What will Luis do when he finds out about his sister's secret love for a man he hates? Whitney has her own dream of becoming a successful tennis player—a dream that is encouraged by her father, TC. Sam Bennett gets ready for his first day as Harmony's chief of police while his wife, Grace, dreams about a little girl who warns her that danger is near. Sam confesses to Grace's best friend, Eve Russell, that he is concerned about Grace. Meanwhile, in Paris, Sheridan Crane, Ethan's aunt, is distraught as she thinks about how her good friend, Princess Diana, lost her life right after finding true love. Sheridan believes that because she and Diana were so similar, she will die now that she's found love. A stalker watches her. Is Sheridan in danger?

002

Luis tries to arrest Ethan and Gwen for starting a fire on the beach, but Sam tells him to let them go, much to Luis's dismay. Luis thinks the Cranes can get away with murder, just because of their powerful name. Gwen and Ethan share a romantic goodbye before she leaves for Paris, where she promises to visit Ethan's beloved aunt, Sheridan. Meanwhile, Theresa reiterates to Whitney that she will marry Ethan. Grace faints after "seeing" the little girl. Eve goes outside to look for the little girl, but only finds Tabitha, the Bennett's eccentric next-door neighbor. Tabitha privately says that the little girl is going to have a big impact on her family and that they should beware. Later, Tabitha comes face to face with the little girl, who tells her she will not get "their souls" this time. An evil Tabitha cackles that their souls will be hers. Are the Bennetts in danger? Kay Bennett reveals to her friend Simone Russell she has a crush on Miguel. Kay's little sister Jessica overhears. Will she spill the beans? Meanwhile, in Paris, Sheridan is sad when she sees a book about her friend Princess Diana. When she gets in her car, she realizes the paparazzi are following her. She speeds to get away from them.

Ethan arrives at the carnival on the Harmony pier, having been convinced by Gwen to get to know the people of Harmony. Theresa accidentally spills a can of paint on Ethan's head. She argues with him about getting paint on her new sweater, completely unaware that this is the man she loves. Ethan thinks she's crazy. Later, Theresa learns Luis almost arrested Ethan and is upset to discover Ethan was with Gwen on the beach. Luis also breaks the news that he got Theresa a summer job at the Burger Hut. Grace hears the little girl call to her again. She screams when her husband, Sam, touches her shoulder. Sam looks around but doesn't find anyone. Tabitha watches from the window and then comes face to face with the little girl. Grace and Sam's daughter, Kay, worries that her little sister, Jessica, will tell Miguel about her crush on him. In Paris, Sheridan fears entering the tunnel where Princess Diana dies. Her car crashes in the tunnel as the paparazzi chase her. The ambulance arrives before they can take pictures and she's rushed to the hospital, where she hears Princess Diana calling to her. Ethan is devastated when he receives a call about Sheridan's accident.

Grace goes up to bed after taking a sleeping pill. While sleeping she levitates to the window and floats down to the little girl, who warns her of the evil around them. Meanwhile, Tabitha tells the doll she's sewing that "it's beginning" and then tries to eavesdrop on Grace and the little girl. After catching Theresa fantasizing about Ethan, Luis reveals he once dreamed of going to college. Despite their moment of closeness, the underlying tension between them about the Cranes does not go away. A worried Ethan calls Gwen, who is at the hospital, for an update on Sheridan. He tells his parents, Ivy and Julian, about the accident but Julian is only worried about how this will affect the family image. Ethan is annoyed at his father's cold attitude. Sheridan remains unconscious and reaches out toward the light, where she believes Princess Diana is. Diana tells her to "go back" to living. Meanwhile, Sheridan's boyfriend Jean-Luc, calls another woman, Mimi, and tells her he will be able to spend all night with her.

005

Luis upsets Pilar when he encourages her to take her husband's name off the deed to the house. Luis asserts that his father's been gone for ten years-he either abandoned them or he's dead. Pilar refuses to believe him. Ivy denies Ethan's suggestion that she seemed unusually interested in Julian's conversation with Sam Bennett, but it is clear that the mention of Sam's name greatly affected her. When Ethan leaves, she takes out a locket and listens to a song that obviously holds great meaning for her. Julian walks in and the two bitterly argue over Ethan's priorities. When Julian walks away, Ivy fingers a revolver. What does she have in store for her husband? Theresa confides in her mother that she dreams Ethan will show up at their door, just as, unbeknownst to her, he arrives to update Pilar on Sheridan's condition. Luis intercepts him, and brusquely tells him he'll pass along the message. Theresa flips when she learns Ethan was at the house, but when she calls out to him, he's already gone. The next morning she tells Whitney that her dream came true. Sheridan wakes up, determined to leave the hospital and live life to it's fullest. She calls Jean Luc, who is in bed with Mimi. Gwen calls Ethan and tells him the good news about his aunt. After sending a swarm of bees after an eavesdropping Tabitha, the little girl tells Grace to be strong and pray. Sam and Jessica find Grace in the backyard. She looks around for the little girl and wishes she could remember her past. Tabitha finishes sewing up Timmy, the doll, and it comes to life! Much to Timmy's dismay, Tabitha tells him he's going to the Bennett house. What does Tabitha have in store for her next-door neighbors?

Theresa reluctantly decides to take the job at the Burger Hut, which Luis arranged for her. Ethan shows up at the Burger Hut and recognizes her as the girl who spilled paint on him. She tries to explain but winds up spilling milkshakes, and then barbecue sauce, on him. Sheridan leaves the hospital, against doctor's orders that she stay longer. She and Gwen have a heart to heart about true love. They make a bet about who will get engaged first. Jean Luc arrives to meet Sheridan at "their café" as his other girlfriend, Mimi watches from a distance. Mimi is angered to see that Sheridan is beautiful, since Jean Luc had sworn she was unattractive and assured Mimi he was just using her for her money. Tabitha arrives at the Bennett home with a present-Timmy! Tabitha is horrified when Grace suggests they use the doll as a prize at the carnival, but she has no choice but to agree. At the police station, Sam and Luis discuss their distrust of the Cranes. Sam goes on the internet to try to find information about Grace's past. A woman who looks just like Grace has a nightmare about running through the forest. At the same time, Grace feels like she's running from evil. The Grace-lookalike stares at a picture of Grace and says how much she misses her.

After hearing Theresa call him by name, Ethan is convinced she's a stalker who's been spilling things on him on purpose. He storms out of the Burger Hut leaving Theresa devastated. After getting fired, Theresa throws down her visor in the kitchen, inadvertently causing a fire! She is horrified when she realizes what happened, and even more horrified when Luis tells her she's going to have to work at the Cannery now. Kay tells Simone she plans to lose her virginity to Miguel...soon. Sheridan, deliriously happy and in love with Jean Luc, calls Ethan and encourages him to propose to Gwen. Meanwhile, Mimi confronts Jean Luc-he lied about Sheridan being ugly. Jean Luc reassures her he's using Sheridan for her money. Later, Jean Luc takes Sheridan on a carriage ride, as Mimi follows them. Sheridan happily accepts Jean Luc's marriage proposal. Mimi vows revenge. Gwen returns home from Paris and confides to Ethan that she was afraid he'd fall in love with someone else while she was gone. He assures her of his love. Much to his chagrin, Timmy becomes a prize at the carnival and is won by a little girl named Rosie. Meanwhile, Tabitha dresses up as a fortuneteller at the carnival and Theresa and Whitney enter her booth. Faith sees Sam's message on the internet that he's looking for information on a woman named Grace who was rescued from a fire twenty years ago. She replies under the name "Seeker." After Sam coaxes "Seeker" for more information, Grace gets scared and turns off the computer-it could be one of "them." Later, she's about to sign on again when the room gets cold and she sees the doorknob turning.

008

Faith's door opens and it's her sixteen year old daughter, Charity. She asks her mother why they're always moving from town to town. Charity wishes she could go to school and have friends like normal kids. Faith reveals she has a sister named Grace-Charity's aunt. Charity tries to persuade her mom to go public with her search for her sister, but Faith mysteriously says she can't. Finally, Charity convinces her to go to the carnival in Harmony. Dressed as a fortuneteller, Tabitha tells Theresa that Ethan is in bed with another woman. The girls are horrified when Tabitha says if Whitney continues to pursue her tennis dream, her father will commit murder. Whitney runs out and Theresa follows her. TC finds out the fortuneteller upset Whitney (but not what she said) and angrily goes off to confront her. Theresa is devastated when she sees Gwen in Ethan's arms at the carnival. Rosie, the little girl who won him as a prize, drags off Timmy. He shoves her ice cream cone in her face and then "frames" her for knocking over ceramic animals. Rosie tells Timmy she doesn't like him; Timmy responds by kicking her and saying he doesn't like her either. Terrified, Rosie kicks him off the pier into the water but Timmy manages to escape. After Sheridan accepts his proposal, Jean Luc tells the carriage driver to hurry-he has another surprise for Sheridan. Mimi calls after them, trying to stop them, but Jean Luc ignores her. Jean Luc surprises Sheridan with a gown-they are going to a ball to celebrate their engagement. Sheridan calls Ethan and Gwen and tells them the good news. A furious Mimi figures out he's taking Sheridan to the ball.

As Timmy hides in the background, TC tells Tabitha (dressed as a fortuneteller) that no one upsets his daughter and gets away with it. Tabitha shocks TC by recounting information about his past that TC has never told anyone—that TC resented his father for working at the country club until he realized he did it for TC and his mother. Tabitha also says TC's father died young because of the events surrounding TC's leg injury. TC agrees with Tabitha when she says he would kill whoever caused the injury. He demands to know who's responsible but Tabitha says he'll find out in due time. A shaken TC leaves. Meanwhile, Whitney tells Eve that TC went to find the fortuneteller. Eve arrives at the booth just after TC leaves. Eve is upset when Tabitha talks about knowing a secret from Eve's past. Sheridan and Jean Luc go to the ball. Mimi arrives, determined to tell Sheridan the truth about Jean Luc. When Jean Luc moves off to take a call, Mimi has the waiter tell Sheridan to meet her on the terrace. Miguel sees Theresa crying and realizes she saw Ethan and Gwen kissing. Luis tells Theresa he got her a job at the cannery. Kay reveals to Simone her plan for getting Miguel—she's going to have a Mr. Harmony contest at the carnival and the winner gets dinner with a mystery date. Of course, Miguel will win and she will be the mystery date. Jessica overhears Kay's plan. Luis agrees to be in the contest, not knowing what it's about. With Gwen's encouragement, Ethan also agrees to be in the contest.

010

On the phone, Jean Luc tries to end his association with Roger, his contact in the drug business, but Roger tells him that's not the way it works. The waiter approaches Sheridan with Mimi's message. The door is locked to the terrace, so the waiter directs Sheridan to another door. Just when Sheridan moves off, Jean Luc approaches Mimi and angrily tells her to leave. Sheridan calls out but Jean Luc covers Mimi's mouth and locks her in a storage closet. Jean Luc leads Sheridan back into the restaurant and tells her he's going to take her to his country house. Jean Luc stops at his apartment, where Roger and a thug are waiting for him. Roger demands the money Jean Luc owes him. Gwen is upset when her fortune cookies say that her love will be threatened by someone close. Ethan reassures her and then calls Sheridan for advice. Sheridan encourages him to propose to Gwen. Eve runs from Tabitha's fortuneteller tent after Tabitha threatens to say Eve's secret out loud. Theresa goes back to the booth and Tabitha tells her she's going to be Mrs. Ethan Crane someday. Theresa is thrilled but when she leaves, Tabitha tells Timmy that Theresa will hurt those she loves. Theresa tells Miguel her good news. Grace asks Sam if the little girl could be telling Grace about a long lost sister. Sam tells Grace about the person called "Seeker" on the internet. Charity and a reluctant Faith arrive at the carnival. Miguel mistakes Faith for Grace and talks to her about the carnival. Charity gets her mom a t-shirt that says "Seeker" on it and on the way back bumps smack into Miguel. The two are instantly attracted to one another. Charity convinces her mom to go to a fortuneteller (Tabitha). When they arrive, a panicked Tabitha tells Timmy "they" have arrived.

Jean Luc's business partners are not happy about being cut out of the loop and they plot to make Jean Luc pay. Unfortunately, Sheridan—still unaware of Jean Luc's real dealings—heads over to his apartment while the final transaction is going down. Instead of running off with the man of her dreams, she runs into the man who plans to crush her dreams—and take her life. Roger and Pierre know they must kill Sheridan so that she will never be able to identify them and while the happy couple is making plans to elope, Roger is making explosive plans of another kind. It seems no one wants to see these two succeed as Mimi, freed from the maintenance closet, races after Sheridan and Jean Luc to his country house. She is not going to let Jean Luc go on with his charade. At Jean Luc's romantic country home something will be sizzling, but it's anything but romance. Back in Harmony, mayhem has turned on Tabitha. Upon innocent Charity's arrival Tabitha and Timmy find themselves spinning in thin air. The Gypsy's magic amuses and amazes Charity, while her mother, knowing that the magic is not a special effect, urges that they leave before something else takes off. Who are these women and why is Tabitha helpless in their presence? TC, Eve, and Whitney still feel the effects of Tabitha's spine-tingling predictions and visions. While Eve and TC hope that their pasts don't come back to haunt them, Grace is on her way to find the gypsy. Maybe she'll find some clues to the past that's haunting her. Not everyone received a reading of disaster from the fortuneteller. Theresa has newfound hope for her life with Ethan when the gypsy sees a new "Mrs. Crane" in the crystal ball. But just as Theresa tells Miguel how her dreams will come true, she sees Ethan proposes to Gwen. With Ethan down on his knee in front of Gwen all of Theresa's wishes turn to dust-or do they?

Her meeting with Miguel doesn't go in Kay's favor when Miguel dreamily tells her that he found Charity. Playing the nice girl, Kay tells Miguel that she'll help him find Charity. Scheming Kay may be disappointed again as Miguel gets ever closer to Charity who plots to return to Harmony. Charity can't find the will to make her powers surface. Despite her mother's efforts, Charity may be headed back into Tabitha's clutches. Theresa wants to change her look. If she's going to work for Mrs. Crane, she's got to keep Ethan from recognizing her. No amount of Whitney's warnings makes Theresa waiver. Ethan and Ivy are determined to send Ethan's stalker behind bars. Even with sketchy evidence against her, Theresa's in for some trouble--if Theresa goes to the Crane Mansion, she may also be heading to jail.

Charity is going the distance for love. She's travelling to Harmony on her own to find Miguel. Kay would do anything to impede this meeting. If Jessica would not intervene it would be a lot easier to keep the two apart. Theresa doesn't have a change of heart about her job with Ivy Crane-she's got a change of clothes. No matter what Theresa and Whitney try there's no way Ivy isn't going to notice the change. It can't be too long before Ethan notices too. More importantly, will Theresa's plan work in the face of Frank Lomax's artistic investigation? Dreams of a handsome stranger and promises of true love deliver Sheridan into Luis' arms. Ever since the crash their cars and their lives have become entangled. Now even Sam suspects that the two are closer than they'd like to appear.

Before she can leave "the big house" for another large residence-the Crane Mansion-Sheridan has another run in with Luis. This time he's hit her where it hurts. Never ask a broken hearted woman about the man who's broken her heart. At the police station Frank asks around about Ethan's stalker. This may be the only time Luis' disdain for the Cranes helps Theresa's campaign. But Theresa's masquerade may be over soon despite her deceiving disguise when Ethan finally meets her. Can Theresa satisfy Ethan's request to help him find his stalker-without turning herself in? If Kay had it her way Charity would be on the other side of Harmony looking for Miguel, but Jessica ruins this conspiracy. Charity and Miguel find each other again, even if it is only to say good bye. Is there any way that Charity could stay? The search party is not the only group looking for Charity. Tabitha and Timmy continue their hunt. On her return to Harmony, Charity's luck might run out, as Tabitha is more determined than ever to give Charity a reason to say farewell.

029

Narrow escapes seem to be Theresa's forte. Ethan doesn't recognize her as his stalker despite how familiar she seems. Pilar is nervous though; this job could mean the end of more than Theresa's dreams of becoming a millionaire if her brother or Ethan learn what she's doing. Confident Theresa is not yet ready to give up her purpose. Kay and Simone can't seem to separate Charity and Miguel, though they try again and again. Charity is spending the day in Harmony. She may stay longer if her mother finds the person she's looking for. Miguel suggests that Mrs. Bennett may be of help-little does he know that they're talking about Mrs. Bennett's own sister. Grace's lunch invitation to Tabitha may be a dangerous proposition. Too bad Tabitha doesn't see the potential. Sheridan's childhood memories haunt her. As she runs from her history with the Cranes, she recreates her not so distant past. It seems as if she just can't stop running into Luis.

030

Whitney's future is the question at hand with TC and Eve. What if she doesn't make the Olympic team, Eve wonders? Are family relations doomed to wane if Whitney's career does? Luis and Sheridan finally agree. They have decided they want to be as far from each other as possible. Sheridan's planning a move again. However, Ethan's intervention keeps Sheridan in Harmony while Pilar's birthday party draws her closer to Harmony's citizens-even the ones she doesn't want to be close to. The birthday party may mean trouble for Theresa too. Unexpected guests leave Luis embarrassed and Theresa with cake on her face. Charity and Miguel's romance grows hot with some samba moves, Latin music, and special chilled drinks. Kay, on the other hand, is teeming with jealousy-she's stuck with Reese while Charity and Miguel dance the night away. But Charity will get burned when she learns time really does fly. Time isn't on Charity's side, but for Grace tardiness proves to be fateful tonight. If she hadn't been late for Pilar's she may have missed the momentous phone call-from her sister. Faith and Grace are only a telephone line away!

031

Missing her bus forces Charity to take a cab home. Thanks to helpful Kay, Charity has enough money for the cab and can take off right away, but that means she can't say goodbye to Miguel.

That's not the worst of Charity's troubles; with Tabitha in the driver's seat she's in for a bumpy ride. Faith and Grace make a connection - a phone connection. Now that they've talked, will they ever meet? It's Pilar's party and there are plenty of party games. Theresa and Ethan play their familiar cat and mouse game, while Luis may be playing with fire. Sheridan and Ethan's arrival is the surprise of the evening: topped only by the surprise kiss of the evening.

Charity has a knight on a shining motorcycle. Miguel, upon hearing Father Lonergan's concern about the young girl's safety, rushes to save Charity. Tabitha plans to nip her problem with Charity and Faith in the butt by hitting Charity on the head. Her opportunity to get rid of Charity is stopped with Miguel's arrival. Miguel and Charity say their good-byes outside Charity's house while Tabitha and Timmy watch. Though Charity tries to be hopeful Faith insists they must move away. Sam and Julian meet about the Police Department budget and Sam pretends he doesn't know Ivy. Julian is suspicious when Ivy decides to attend the Police Picnic, she says it's for Ethan's sake. Are old memories going to be too much for both Sam and Ivy? TC's knee gives him grief again. A friendly game of basketball proves painful, but TC isn't willing to own up to it. There are even more aching memories to go with the hurt in his knee. TC's secrecy is worrisome for Eve.

033

Luis and Sheridan have finally found some common ground - at the beach. Is there a friendship in the works? Not when Julian gets involved. Though Julian is against using sexual harassment as Sheridan's defense in court (the publicity could be detrimental), he makes a call to the mayor claiming a complaint. Sam lets Luis know about the complaint; they think it's Sheridan's doing. Luis wonders how he could have let himself be fooled by her charms. There's no way he's letting her go free now. Theresa at the country club enjoys her day until she runs into Frank. The investigator puts her in the hot seat, but she's able to throw him off the scent telling him the stalker has moved. He doesn't stay fooled though. While Theresa's gotten quite proficient at avoiding Ethan, she has to hone her skills in evading Frank - he's on to her. Whitney is offered a corporate sponsorship for her tennis career. Considering the cost of playing tennis, Whitney is thrilled. TC's not quite as happy. Tension reigns when Julian and TC meet, and TC rejects the offer. Ivy's observation of Julian's stress during the meeting leads her to wonder. Eve's wondering about a few things too. She can't seem to unlock TC's shed or his secrets

034

Whitney, intimidated by the club and its snooty members, doesn't plan on working there any longer. Theresa proves to her that they both belong and before long this will be their life - only they'll do it right. Theresa has always thrived off her aspirations of fortune and fame. A day at the country club makes Theresa feel like she's living out her dreams, but today her dreams may be shattered: Frank Lomax is on the prowl and he knows she's lied to him. Sheridan thought Luis would soften his case against her; after all, they seemed to have connected. Luis thought so too, but he's convinced Sheridan had ulterior motives behind her charm; she wanted him to go easy on her. After Sheridan's punishment is assigned - 100 hours of community service at the Youth Center - she plans to make arrangements with the director of the Center. She's in for another surprise when she finds out who the director is. Miguel can't bear to let Charity leave the area. He convinces Grace to meet Charity's mother and try to talk her out of it. Charity tells him not to bother; her mother's mind is made up. She can't bear to leave without seeing Miguel once more and leaves for Harmony with a good luck charm for Miguel. This is nothing but bad news for Tabitha and Timmy. They celebrate, thinking Charity and Faith are moving away. While Charity's last minute visit to Harmony is their worst nightmare, it may be the answer to all of Faith and Grace's prayers!

035

Tabitha and Timmy's celebration is cut short by Charity's return to Harmony. Charity is on the verge of finding Grace and reuniting with Miguel. When there's no answer at Pilar's is the opportunity lost? Miguel's persistence may save the day. Conflict rises out of confusion for Sheridan. The handsome hunk on the road, a Harmony native, charms her. They have more in common than they think - a certain Harmony cop is a mutual acquaintance. When they part, unwittingly it's for the same place to see the same person: the director of the Youth Center, Luis Lopez-Fitzgerald. Hank is back in Harmony, and his appearance can complicate the clash between Luis and Sheridan.

036

Charity and Miguel are excited as they search for Charity's aunt. As they now know she's in Harmony, they think Grace will definitely be able to help - they have no idea how much - yet. Family life for the Bennetts is a surprise a minute. Kay pays Jessica back for her schemes against her. Jessica can't get out of this one, but she won't stop helping Charity and Miguel stay together. As Charity gets closer to Grace, Grace is on the brink of remembering her past. No matter how draining the venture to find her family has been, Grace plans to continue. Her biggest clue comes today. Sam reunites with family too. Sam soon discovers Hank hasn't changed, he's only in Harmony to save a little money for his next set of adventures. Sheridan thinks she's washed her hands of Luis and of the community service assignment. Hank allows her make a donation in lieu of giving her time - what a shame it isn't his decision to make. Luis and Beth recall their past romance, but for some reason he can't get Sheridan out of his mind.

037

Grace and Faith's connection on the Internet begins to shed light on Grace's past and the evil she has to fight. Timmy thinks he's doomed as Tabitha lies lifeless on the couch. When he revives her, she resolves to stop Charity and Grace from meeting. Luis learns of Sheridan's assignment to the Youth Center. Sheridan, angry at his charge of bribery takes her check back. Despite Luis' efforts to reassign Sheridan it looks like the two of them are doomed to suffer each other's company. Hank places himself strategically in the middle - and makes a date with Sheridan. Theresa and Whitney convince Ethan the search for his stalker should not continue. Ivy and Frank, however, are going to continue with the investigation. Will the girls be able to hide the truth much longer?

Tabitha may have stopped Grace from discovering Faith and Charity, but she can't hide all her secrets. Especially one named Timmy. Kay realizes Charity may be Grace's link to her past, but if Charity stays, Kay will never be with Miguel. So Kay knows her mother and Charity should not meet - her love life is on the line. But when Faith is on the line, Kay finds Charity and Miguel. Charity is able to override Faith's hysteria. Everything will be all right; Charity's spotted her aunt in Harmony! Gwen tries to get Ethan's mind off his stalker. The case is closed and she thinks he should concentrate on other things-marrying her for instance.

she's discovered about her past. Eve is joyful at the news. Grace may discover even more if the spirit board begins to move. Sam gets a crazy idea - he thinks finding Charity may bring them closer to the truth. Tabitha feigns heart palpitations to keep Grace and Faith apart. Tabitha is contented once again. Charity has to leave Harmony; Faith demands it, she's in terrible danger. Kay prevents Simone from showing Charity a picture of Grace. Charity and Miguel go back to his house to get his motorcycle and take her home. Theresa and Whitney try to convince him to keep Charity in Harmony.

Sheridan continues to be haunted by memories of her past. Ms. Crane believes her tendency to make bad decisions and choose the wrong men stems from that terrible night all those years ago. Pilar tries to comfort her, but even she has a hard time denying that people will turn away from Sheridan if the truth came out. Pilar is convinced she married the right man and that her husband did not really abandon her and the family. Conversely, Hank asks Luis about his father and brother, Antonio, but quickly realizes the subject is still a sore spot for his friend. Sam and Grace put the pieces together and realize Charity is probably Grace's niece. Grace fears that the dark forces Faith talked about really are keeping her and her sister apart. The Bennetts race home, but Charity has already left. While Sam and Grace try contacting Faith on-line, Simone tries convincing Kay to tell her parents that Charity is at Miguel's. Meanwhile, Miguel's motorcycle won't start. Will Kay tell her parents the truth before Charity leaves town? Or will she keep Charity's whereabouts a secret to keep Miguel for herself, and thereby destroy her mother's last chance to discover her past?

Ethan worries about Sheridan's date with Hank. Since Hank is not from their social class, he could be using her. Sheridan explains that she just needs a night out of the house, away from the memories. Sheridan's date with Hank gets off on the wrong foot when he shows up at her cottage on the Crane estate against her wishes. Luis gets ready for his date with Beth, not knowing that he's on yet another collision course with Sheridan Crane. Pilar's plea for Luis to go easy on Sheridan falls on deaf ears. Elsewhere, Faith also prays, but her candle is mysteriously blown out by the wind and howling is heard from outside. Sam comes up with an idea to help his wife, but it's risky. 043

Luis and Beth reminisce about their high school romance. Their date unhappily becomes a double date with Sheridan and Hank when they are forced to share a table at The Lobster Shack. Miguel realizes that once he sees Charity's mom, he'll be able to identify her twin in Harmony. Unfortunately, Tabitha comes to the same conclusion when she spots Charity on the back of Miguel's motorcycle, and she follows them home. Charity tries to convince a distrusting Faith to meet with Miguel, who is waiting outside. However, Tabitha creates more evil havoc, causing a terrified Faith to promise to leave town tonight. The Little Girl cryptically warns Grace, "All will happen tonight." Grace must be strong or else all will be lost for her and her family. Eve and TC are concerned when Grace insists that the statue of the little girl came to life, but they are overjoyed that Grace communicated with her twin sister. Grace worries something terrible will happen to keep her and her sister apart. Jessica can't wait to tell Kay that Charity is their cousin.

Little does she know that Frank is determined to follow Whitney and Theresa around until he discovers the truth. Theresa teases Whitney about her feelings for Frank. While Ms. Lopez-Fitzgerald runs an errand, Frank catches up with Whitney. Whitney becomes flustered when Frank questions her about her love life. She becomes even more nervous when Theresa shows up. Either way, he knows Faith and Charity are in big trouble. Grace almost catches Timmy when she drops by to see Tabitha. Grace notices a strange smell coming from the basement and decides to check it out. Father Lonigan's life is put in danger when he prays for the souls in jeopardy tonight.

Luis responds that it was a very strange night and tells his mother how Sheridan got locked in a box. Luis asks Pilar if Sheridan's ramblings had anything to do with her past, but Pilar successfully evades the question. However, Luis is still intrigued by the mystery. After Luis goes for a walk, Pilar calls a cab to take her to the Crane estate right away. A still-traumatized Sheridan is grateful for Hank's support. She's relieved when she determines that she didn't say too much in her hysterical state. Sheridan wonders if she's doomed to be haunted by her past for the rest of her life. Tabitha laughs devilishly as she watches Faith's house burn down. Satisfied with her work, she morphs back into the hound and sets off for home. Inside, an injured Faith weakly yells for Charity to get out of the house, but her voice is drowned out by the crackling flames. Smoke fills Charity's bedroom while she lies motionless in her bed. Meanwhile, Grace panics when no one answers the phone at Faith's. Sam offers to go check on Faith and Charity when Grace suddenly collapses. Timmy is relieved when Tabitha returns home. She informs Timmy that Faith and her brat are no longer a problem, but now she has to check on Grace.

Sam realizes the video hookup on the computer is still set up and tries to get an image of Faith's place. Faith sees that Sam is trying to reach her on the computer, but struggles to hit the connect button so the Bennetts can see the danger she is in. Kay models sexy lingerie in front of Simone. Ms. Bennett explains how she is going to seduce Miguel tonight and lose her virginity. Simone warns Kay that she can't make a guy like her simply by sleeping with him. Undeterred, Kay sneaks into Miguel's bedroom and slips into bed with him. How will Miguel react?

While dreaming, Sheridan watches a reenactment of the night she killed someone. She feels helpless as a young Sheridan cowers behind a couch clutching a letter opener while a mysterious figure approaches. Sheridan then sees the lifeless body on the floor and moves toward it to finally discover whom she killed. Kay blasts Simone for interrupting her seduction of Miguel with the news of the fire. Kay is still determined to sleep with Miguel tonight. She bitterly accuses Charity of starting the fire just to get Miguel's attention. Faith's house continues to burn to the ground. The little girl appears to Charity in her dreams and wakes her up just before a burning beam falls onto Charity's bed. Charity panics when the fire traps her in her room. can only stand helplessly by as the fire consumes the house. Miguel thinks he hears Charity screaming from inside. Tabitha and Timmy head for the house to make sure Faith and Charity are destroyed.

In the valuable women 18-34 category, "Passions" is now No. 2 for the week, the quarter and the season. Last week's 2.9 rating in the women 18-34 demographic is up a scintillating 53 percent from "Passions" 1.9 for the same week last year.

For the first 10 weeks of this year's third quarter, "Passions" is the fastest-growing daytime series on network television versus year-ago results among women 18-34 (up 19 percent), women 18-49 (up 18 percent) and women 25-54 (up 13 percent). Last week saw "Days of our Lives" (2.7/18 among women 18-49, 3.9/25 among women 18-34) finish tied for No. 2 among women 18-49, but "Days" remains daytimes' No. 1 series in that key category for the quarter and the season. Daytime averages among women 18-49 for the September 2-6 week are: NBC, 2.4/16 (up 4 percent versus results for the same week last year); ABC, 2.2/14 (even); CBS, 1.8/13 (down 18 percent).
