BE SURE TO BE ENTERTAINED, WITH 20SOMETHING Sunday, 25 September @ 1.55pm

Heritage is still high on our fun agenda this week as Namhla Ndlovu and Khethiwe Kunene bring you yet another entertainment-filled edition of 20something this Sunday at 1.55pm - free on e.

This week Bongo Muffin is in studio to chat about their new album after many years out of the spotlight. They also set the record straight about the rumours that they had disbanded... The group, which helped popularize the Afro-Pop genre in the late 90s - and thus paving the way for the likes of Mafikizolo and Malaika - has been busy with solo pursuits, the most notable coming from Thandiswa Mazwai. Now, the question is, will they be able to keep up with the new players and be able to still carry the torch for the authentic South African music scene?

We check out the making of Mario's new video "Here we go again". After wooing the ladies with his first successful single "Let me love you", he has been hailed as the next Usher, he lets us in on the making of the video for his follow up single...

The movie preview of the week is "Cinderella Man" starring Russell Crowe and Renée Zellweger. During the American depression of the 30s, a common-man hero, James J. Braddock - aka "The Cinderella Man" - appeared among the economic and human ruins to become a legend in his lifetime. After taking-up boxing to make money to feed his family, he ends up becoming quite famous in the process, eventually going up against boxing champ Max Baer.

Diamonds are forever... The music video of the week comes from controversial rapper Kanye West with his chart topping single 'Diamonds from Sierra Leone'.
