WWE RAW “Homecoming” Wrestling comes home to roost on Sunday, 23 October at 3pm

They say you can't go home again, but on Sunday, 23 October at 2pm, RAW breaks the rules one more time with the WWE RAW “Homecoming” – a three-hour wrestling special. To celebrate the show moving to a new TV network in the states, the lucky wrestling fans of South Africa get to see three action-packed hours of their favourite wrestlers from today and yesteryear, free on e.tv.

Two weeks ago, the owner, Mr. McMahon decided that WWE Champion, John Cena would make his first defense of the WWE Championship on the new network against none other than RAW General Manager Eric Bischoff. Last week, Kurt Angle put Cena through a table with an Angle Slam, and RAW went off air with the GM holding the WWE Championship high. Was this a premonition, or will The Champ overcome the odds once again to retain his gold?

Prior to disrupting last week's main event, Angle campaigned to Mr. McMahon for another title shot, claiming he earned it by defeating Cena at Unforgiven. Angle's plea was interrupted by 'The Heartbreak Kid' Shawn Michaels and after a verbal sparring session, Mr. McMahon announced a blockbuster: HBK vs. Angle in a 30-Minute WWE Iron Man Match at Homecoming.

And finally, WWE Homecoming wouldn't be complete without a dose of the men who helped get RAW off the ground. “Rowdy” Roddy Piper will host Mick Foley on Piper's Pit. Also, WWE Homecoming will feature the return of “The Texas Rattlesnake” Stone Cold Steve Austin, Hulk Hogan and Triple H. If ever there were a trio of wrestling gods, these guys would be on any man's short list. I get chills thinking about it.

Don't miss an action packed three-hour extravaganza with WWE RAW's Homecoming, Sunday 23 October at 2pm, free, only on eTV.
